WOMAN NAMED IN VET BUREAU PROBE

Washington, Nov. 15. — Stirred by Charles R. Forbes' charges against committee counsel, General John F. O'Ryan told the Senate Veterans' Committee today that he expected to prove:

"Convincingly the whole truth of [illegible] Mortimer's charge that Colonel Forbes was one of the gang of conspirators who were tied together cheek and jowl to defraud the government."

Forbes later in cross-examination admitted he and Mortimer had quarrelled about Mrs. Mortimer.

"I expect further to show," O'Ryan said, "that this criminal conduct was in consonance with his previous life record."

The statement of General O'Ryan

TRAFFIC COP ON TRIAL AS GRAFTER

One of Policemen Charged With Attempting to "Shake Down" Speeders

Two Boston patrolmen went on trial today before Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, charged with conduct unbecoming officers.

One is charged with attempting to "shake down" automobile speeders.

The other with returning a false report when told to investigate charges against the first officer.

Both are motorcycle cops.

They are Phillip D. Bullock of the West Roxbury Station, who lives at No. 10 Nerwell street, Dorchester, and James J. McGoldrick, of the Jamaica Plain Station, residing at No. 58 Jamaica street.

Three citizens appeared at the commissioner's office to testify against Bullock.

Two will say, it is alleged, that he demanded tribute when he halted them for violating automobile laws.

The third is a witness to an alleged attempted "shake."

Captain Joseph Harriman appeared to testify against McGoldrick who is charged with untruthfulness in addition to conduct unbecoming an officer.

Capt. Harriman will say it is alleged, that he ordered McGoldrick to investigate "shake down" charges against his brother motorcycle cop and he handed in a "whitewash" report which was untrue.

Part of McGolrick's patrol took in Jamaica Way, River Way and South street where automobiles move along in flocks.

MAINE GIRL STOLE FOR LOVE, SHE SAYS

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 15. (N.N.S.) — Disillusioned, her faith in her "perfect lover" shattered, and facing a court hearing on a charge of burglary and larceny, pretty Jeanne Marin, of Portland, Me., today told her story to a police officer in Cleveland Heights, a uburb, following her arrest last night with Frank L. Batchelder, twenty-nine, who is also held.

The love story, which began in a Portland normal school, culminated rapidly, the girl said.

"Frank was so strong and so

FATALITIES LAID TO OLD ENGINES

Stockholder Declares Road Is Using Equipment That Should Be in Junk Pile

The New Haven rail. d was scored at the hearing before the Public Utilities Commission on fare increases today by Robert Henderson—stock holde and former employe.

He spoke for commuters, protesting the 20 per cent. increase in commutation tickets sought by New England railroads. He charged that:—

Twelve deaths and injuries to 83 persons from New Haven accidents recently were due to engines that ought to be in "the junk pile."

Only a miracle prevented a loss of life when a New Haven engine shed everything above its wheels as its boiler exploded at East Walpole in September. It went up in the air instead of back into the coaches.

The railroad is running its engines to death, destroying valuable equipment instead of placing them in their shops for needed repairs due to the lockout of shopmen still in existence.

New Haven inspectors lied in their reports as to condition of the road's equipment.

He based his charges upon report made by inspectors for the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Public Utilities Commission.

Henderson read a personal letter from President Pearson of the New Haven road, proving, he said, that the latter had described conditions contrary to the actual findings of the Commerce Commission.

On one occasion, he said, inspect-

PRISON REFORM OFFICIALS QUIT IN SQUABBLE

Joseph Lee and Richard H. Dana, vice-presidents of the Massachusetts Prison Associa-tion, and J. G. Thorp, Herbert C. Parsons, Edward Cummings and Allison G. Cathcart, directors of the association, have resigned as officers and members.

Joseph Lee

The resignations are the result of a row with Henry A. Higgins, the new secretary of the association, and publisher of The Prison World.

Higgins' opposition to the bill to have the State take over all county prisons was the cause of the trouble.

The Massachusetts Civic League, of which Joseph Lee is president, is circulating petitions for initiative legislation on the question, and expects to secure enough signatures to take the matter to the people on a referendum vote.

Lee and his associates say Higgins is using his paper to defeat the initiative petitions and the State control of all prisons, for which the Prison Association has been working for thirty years.

MRS. RUTH'S CANNED GOODS ORDER 'CANNED'

Babe Ruth's boned-dinner plans for the Winter are all gone to tunket.

That is unless Mrs. Babe Ruth goes down to the stores and buys the canned accessories like other folks.

An order of tinned stuff which she gave the Army Base sales stores, at the commissary has been officially cancelled. In other words, the canned goods order has been "canned."

It was a Ruthless act; ask Babe if it wasn't.

It was all right so long as she ordered the stuff in the name of her big brother lieutenant, Richard H. Magee.

Unfortunately for her plans she ordered them sent to the Ruth farm in Sudbury instead of the lieutenant's home on Commonwealth avenue.

That tangled the red tape and general orders to everything. It isn't being done. Army goods at army wholesale prices can't be bought by proxy—for the proxy. It was a nice order as to size. It embraced everything in canned goods trimmings for Winter dinners. There were peas, beans, salmon, corn, spinach, and only the Army and Mrs. Babe knows what not.

When the question of their being sent to a Sudbury farm owned by a man named Ruth, instead of to a Boston address where an army lieutenant resides, came up, the matter was referred to Lieutenant-Colonel H. E. Comstock. He conferred with Captain J. J. Deming. They investigated.

The canned came, saw and was conquered. What was more, he was captivated. He pronounced the barefooted damsels the perfection of art. "I shall report to the Mayor that Boston is in no danger from these young women," he said.

BERLIN DENIES REPUDIATION OF VERSAILLES PEACE PACT

Berlin, Nov. 15 (A. P.)—Official quarters here dismiss as wholly unfounded the reports circulated abroad that the German government has decided to repudiate the Treaty of Versailles in its entirety.

It was stated that payment of reparation could be resumed only when the status prior to January 11, the date of the French entry into the Ruhr, was fully restored.

Repudiation of reparation obligations in the present situation does not signify official disavowal of the treaty, it was added, but is the result of France's violation of the treaty.

CLEVELAND AND CHICAGO RACE TO LAND G. O. P. CONVENTION

Washington, Nov. 15.—Denver, heretofore regarded as a strong contender for the Republican National Convention next year, failed to submit an invitation when a special subcommittee of the Republican National Committee met here today to receive convention bids.

Cleveland made a strong bid, with a cash guarantee of $125,000, and some sub-committee members apparently believed the race was narrowing down to Cleveland and Chicago.

Submitting Chicago's invitation, Fred W. Upham, Republican national treasurer, said the city would furnish the Coliseum and pay all expenses of the convention. He submitted signed agreement from the principal Chicago hotels offering rates of $5 to $10 for single rooms and $20 to $25 for double rooms. The convention will probably be held June 5-16.

SEIZE 2 BIGGEST STILLS IN BOSTON AND MUCH HOOCH

North End coppers today copped the biggest stills in Boston in captivity since Mr. Volstead got action. The stills are twins and each holds 200 gallons. They were taken in a raid on the top floor at No. 97 Chester street.

With them were seized 200 gallons of mash and a large quantity of distilled hooch. Warrants and arrests are due to follow.

Captain McConnell, Sergeants Sullivan and Corcoran and Special Officers Geman, Dooley, Leventhal and Murphy conducted the raid. No one was found in the place but police say both stills were in operation. The house was surrounded before the raid started.

Several trips with the "wagon" were necessary to convey the loot to the Hanover street station. Crowds of curiosity seekers swamped the raiders so that a half dozen patrolmen were sent to their aid in clearing the way.

BALDWIN THREATENS BREAK WITH ALLIES OVER GERMANY

London, Nov. 15 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, in answer to the Laborite motion of censure in the House of Commons today, said with reference to the Ruhr and reparations he had spared no pains to let it be known to Great Britain's allies that the British people could not continue to maintain the spirit necessary for co-operation if the present situation were allowed to continue.

"I had high hopes," he said, "that when the communications with America began they might really be productive of solid progress, but here again, as so often before, we found all our efforts brought to naught, not by our own action nor by the action of America, but by the action of two of our allies."

Boston Visit of the Shenandoah Is Again Deferred

The giant airship Shenandoah will not be in Boston today.

The aircraft has failed to come so often now newspapers keep the above line on tap in their composing rooms. It is all set up. All the editor does when the head of the copy desk gets the A. P. flash—Shenandoah not coming—is to yell down to the composing room, "Pick up that standing line."

Official excuse today is, "Too high winds."

One wonders for what purpose the Shenandoah was built. If it can't sail in a fair breeze, what good is it?

TUG AND BARGES SAVED FROM POLLOCK'S RIP SHOALS

Chatham, Nov. 15.—The disabled ocean tug International and three barges in tow, all of which nearly met with disaster on Pollock's Rip, were saved from their perilous position during the night by the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet, which had aped from Woods Hole on learning of the plight of the four craft.

The barges were towed to safe anchorage grounds, whence they will be taken to Vineyard Haven today by a tug which has been dispatched for them. The Acushnet took the International in tow for Vineyard Haven during the early morning hours.

The International came to grief when her towing hawser fouled her propeller. The Acushnet and the ocean tug Honeybrook, when they first came up with her, could not get within hailing distance, as a high sea was running and breaking over her.

LUMBER KING WINS $4,000 SUIT OF GIRL 'COMPANION'

New York, Nov. 15.—Miss Olga Ralph, a music student from Evansville, Ind., has lost her suit for $100 against John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association and head of one of the largest lumber companies in Texas, whom she accused in an action filed last March with failure to fulfill an alleged agreement to pay her $500 a month.

Supreme Court Justice McCook ruled that Miss Ralph's allegations were not supported by testimony and entered judgment for Kirby with costs assigned to the plaintiff.

Miss Ralph charged that Kirby agreed in 1918 that if she would travel with him as his secretary and companion he would take care of her for life. Also at his request, she alleged, she had her name changed to Olga Kirby. In March, 1922, she alleged, that she agreed to again assume the name of Ralph, and release certain papers and documents to Kirby in exchange for $6,000 in cash and his agreement to pay her $500 monthly for life. Her suit alleged that Kirby had made but one $500 payment.

HEAVY BANK VAULT DOORS CREEP THROUGH STREETS

Three steel doors for the new First National Bank vaults, each weighing eighty-five tons, arrived at the Albany street freight yards and were rolled through the streets today in thirty-ton sections. One section that left the freight yards at 7 p. m. Wednesday, with the intention of getting it to the Milk street site of the new bank building during the slack street traffic late night, had only reached the corner of High and Summer streets at 9 a. m. today.

The big sections are so heavy that no truck can support them, and if such a truck were obtainable, it would crush through the underground railway tunnels under the great weight of the doors. Consequently they are being transported on rollers that distribute the weight over a wide surface. The movers hope to perfect their methods so that they can move at least one section every night hereafter.

BRITAIN TO SELL PERSIAN OIL STOCK

London, Nov. 15 (A. P.).—Answering a question in the House of Commons today whether the Royal Dutch-Shell combination was about to acquire the British Government's holdings in the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, said the proposal had been under consideration some time, but no decision had been reached. The Government, however, contemplated no step that would jeopardize the supply of oil fuel for the Navy and the mercantile marine, he said.

THREE INJURED IN TUNNEL CAVE-IN

Three workmen were buried in a tunnel cave-in at the site of a new power plant of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company at North Weymouth today. The cave-in occurred on Bridge street, near the bridge. Every available man of the company was rushed to the scene to dig out the buried workmen in an effort to save their lives.

HEALER'S BODY CREMATED; WOMEN PRAY HE'LL RETURN

New York, Nov. 15.—Women followers of Frederick L. Rawson, spiritual "healer," who knelt at his bier for three days praying for his resurrection, continued their prayers today as the body was being cremated.

The prayer service was held in the headquarters of the Society for Spreading the Knowledge of True Prayer, of which Rawson was president. There was no funeral service over the body.

KAISER HIMSELF SENDS MESSAGE DENYING ROYALIST PLOT

PASSPORT STORY FICTION EX-EMPEROR DECLARES

The Boston American through George Sylvester Viereck of New York, noted writer on German affairs, today publishes an exclusive cablegram from ex-Kaiser William of Germany. It follows:

Doorn, 12:01 P. M., Nov. 14, 1923.
George Sylvester Viereck, New York:

Thanks for kind information. Telegram of November 12 and article in Brussel's Gazette absolute fiction.

Return of Crown Prince prepared and executed clandestinely without my knowledge. Dutch government, informed by him of permission to return accorded by German government, made no objections.

I received farewell letter from Crown Prince, dated November 3, 1923. After he had passed the frontier no courier arrived here. Pure invention by Agence Telegraphique Belge (Belgian Telegraph Agency).

Dr. Kan lunched as usually once every month with me giving me first detailed information about negotiations for Crown Prince's return to Germany between him, Dutch and German governments. I am totally uninformed about any movement intending to restore monarchy on December 4.

Had I been consulted beforehand, I would have objected to Crown Prince's return at this moment when Germany is rent by internal dissensions.

Situation in Doorn unchanged. In absolute peace and confidentially hope. Torniaffar interviews are lies and fiction. No such person was ever in Doorn. Best wishes.

(Signed) William. I. R.

The foregoing came in response to the message sent by Mr. Viereck in which he informed the ex-Kaiser of the publication in the United States that William proposed an entrance into Germany.

Mr. Viereck's message was as follows:

His Majesty the Emperor and King Wilhelm, Doorn, Holland:

Every newspaper in United States carries front page report of your majesty's proposed return to Germany; based mainly on dispatch dated Brussels, November twelfth:

"The former German Emperor is preparing to return to the Fatherland. He already has in his hands passports for himself and his suite and Brussels goes so far as to say that it is expected the [illegible] monarchy will be restored December fourth, Wilhelm or his son, the former Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm ascending the throne."

ANOTHER DISPATCH

Another dispatch reads "Private advices from Doorn received by the Agence Telegraphique Belge say that courier Von Hoechst arrived at Doorn at 4 o'clock this afternoon with twelve German passports for the Ex-Kaiser and his immediate entourage.

A telegram in cipher was received there in the morning and early in the afternoon there was a long conference between Wilhelm and those close to him. Later, a high Dutch official, Doctor Kan, of the ministry of the interior, called and was closeted with the former Emperor thirty-five minutes.

Wireless system has been installed at Haus Doorn, which has been the residence of the head of the Hohenzollerns during the later years of his internment in Holland and messages are received from Nauen, a noon daily.

"Your Majesty authorized me to inquire in Doorn by cable as to the truth of reports of this nature. America appreciates fullest statement possible under circumstances from your Majesty. Respectful greetings.

(Signed) George Sylvester Viereck

German Imperial Flag Raised in Munich

Munich, Nov. 15 (AP).—The Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr, today ordered displayed the old German Imperial Flag of black, white and red instead of the official flag of the German Republic, which is black, red and gold. The significance of this order is the subject of conjecture and it is interpreted by some as indicating that the dictator has small confidence in the Berlin Government.

Thirteen of those killed Friday in the national putsch were buried today.

General Ludendorff in full uniform attended cremation of the body of Von Scheubned-Richter, another victim, at the cemetery of Ostfriedhof today. Speaking with feeling Ludendorff said in part: "Those that have fallen are not the last who will die for the German people's movement."

Ludendorff was wildly acclaimed by the crowds held back by police lines, and gravely saluted in response. He looked rather old and tired and sad.

France Sees German Plan to Scare Allies

Paris, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Reports from Berlin that the government may abandon the Ruhr and the Rhineland are received with great skepticism in French official circles.

"If the reports really come from official quarters," said a spokesman for the Foreign Office, "the intention must be to frighten the allies by holding up the prospect to them of having a big job in caring for the wants of the Ruhr population. The attention, however, will not be carried to the point where the allies would really be obliged to substitute themselves for the Berlin government and pay to the local inhabitants: 'Since you are abandoned by your own government, we will see that you do not suffer.'"

The view of French official circles that if anything could make the separation of the Rhineland and the Ruhr from the Reich certain and permanent such action as the Berlin reports say is intended would do it. Private advices say the Ruhr population is already aroused by such reports from Berlin and is loudly outspoken in condemnation. The most general comment in the Ruhr territory, according to these advices, is: "If Berlin deserts us the least the German government can do is to leave us free to deal with the Allies."

Abandonment of the region by Berlin would bring on a grave crisis. It is admitted, for the Allies would require a little time to prepare for the emergency. In the end, however, it is considered such action would do far greater harm to Germany than to the Allies.

Britain Refuses to Demand Crown Prince's Expulsion

London, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Lord Crewe, British Ambassador to France, will inform the [illegible] council of ambassadors in Paris today that his government is prepared to join the allies in a collective note to Germany condemning the return of the former German Crown Prince as inimical to the peace and order of Germany and as an infraction of the treaty of Versailles.

Great Britain, however, will not go so far as to associate herself with any demand by the allies for the expulsion of the Kaiser's heir, as the government believes it would be futile to make such a request at this juncture.

Lord Crewe will also say that the London Government is ready to renew its demand, in co-operation with the allies, that generally "will grant greater security to the interallied commission of control and that there be stricter observance of the disarmament clauses of the peace treaty, but he will also point out the difficulties the Stresemann Cabinet, in the present state of disruption in Germany, would have in meeting all of France's demands in this respect.

Resumes U. S. Dollar Payments in Germany

New York, Nov. 15.—The American Express Company announced today it had resumed dollar payments throughout Germany, suspended last week. H. K. Brooks, vice-president, said the suspension had been considered necessary to safeguard dollars in transit in Germany, but that additional precaution had since been taken.

No Worry About This Land
Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THIS is written on the Rock Island Railroad, between Fort Worth and Kansas City—both cities to make Easterners rub their eyes.

Just before you reach McFarlan, Kansas, you notice a heavy cloud of smoke overhanging a field. A farmer is doing his Fall plowing, under a sky without a cloud, driving an oil engine.

On a hill, in the next field, is a gigantic wheel, on a tower. The wheel is pumping water. Oil from below the ground, wind in the heights above, harnessed and no longer blowing where it listeth—these plow the ground that men once painfully turned by hand, and pump the water that women carried from wells, on their heads, 2,000 years ago.

Oil, wind and higher power, under the farmer's hat, give him what he needs.

IN THE Wichita Eagle you read the warning of Wichita's underwriters, in a well-written advertisement, "95 per cent. of men at sixty are dependent on their daily earnings, or on others for support, and not one man in thirty, who retires with a competency, is able to retain that competency to the close of his life." Moral, take out a life income policy.

FOR ONE good kind of insurance, move to the Western country, bring some money with you, be well advised, start right, then old age and other trifles need not worry you.

How long will the extraordinary wealth of this country last? Forever. You read R. L. Jones' Tulsa Tribune, like everybody else within reach of that excellent newspaper, and see, on the front page, of yesterday, this:

A gas gusher that will provide gas for all towns in Northern Colorado, including Denver, has come in near Collins, Colorado.

ABOUT ONE HUNDRED million cubic feet of gas "every 24 hours" is the calculated flow of that well, biggest ever brought in, in Colorado's Intermountain field.

It just gushes out, every day, as much gas as would cost consumers $100,000 in New York—and no expense, except piping and burning it. Or you can turn the gas into electric power, where it comes out of the ground, and distribute that power along a wire, for hundreds of miles.

THAT IS not all the meaning, in such news. Where there is gas there is oil, nearly always, and by now men are drilling for oil around there, where no oil was thought to be.

Don't, however, be led into buying stock. If there is any in Colorado worth buying, Bonfils and Tammen will get it, long before you hear of it, and bury it in their vaults, beneath their high power coupon cutting machine in the Denver Post building.

If it's a fine well, but with no oil, you can have it. Pure as the dove that flew around outside the Ark, without even getting its feet on the ground, Bonfils and Tammen would not sell you stock in an oil-less oil well. But they have wicked friends that would, and do, sell carloads of it.

THE KANSAS CITY POST AND JOURNAL, that reach out everywhere, meet you at Topeka, and tell you that Lloyd George and Asquith, reunited, and forgetting their differences, will fight Tories and protection under the banner of united liberalism and free trade.

WALTER S. DICKEY'S newspapers, combing the world for news, tell you everything—about the ex-Kaiser planning to come back, if his son does not land ahead of him—about all the world news, the Washington news, the news from China, about Pinchot and Coolidge, Johnson and Bryan, religion and sport, finance and drama. But here, with Europe so far off, and Washington a speck in "the little East," a 100 million foot oil well seems like the really big news.

AND EVEN more important than the well is that baby eating breakfast with his mother in the railroad restaurant at Caldwell, Kansas, just north of the Oklahoma border.

You ask what kind of baby it is, meaning boy or girl, and the mother, tall, cheerful and proud, answers: "This baby is a Texas

LOVED AND LOST

Mrs. Sarah M. M. Belanger and William C. L. Belanger. The Roxbury woman who is to seek annulment of her marriage after discovering her husband has another wife and child in Montreal. She lay her marital woes to a succession of events in which the 13 Hoodoo figures.

FINDS HUSBAND HAS ONE WIFE TOO MANY

"Were it not for the number 'thirteen,' which has haunted me ever since I have been married, I would be a happy woman. But that number 'thirteen'—Oh, mon dieu—pardon my French—it is more than I can endure!"

It is "unlucky thirteen" that pretty Mrs. Sarah May Morrissey Belanger—or it may be DesLauriers—former musical comedy dancer, blames for all her marital troubles.

Belanger recently confessed to his wife, she says, that his real name is DesLauriers, and that he has a wife and a fifteen-year-old son in Montreal. On complaint of his wife, he was arrested on a bigamy charge and placed on probation for one year with instructions to get in touch with his Montreal wife.

"It's all that accursed 'thirteen,'" she told the Boston American representative who called at her home, No. 672 Dudley street, Roxbury. "It has nearly driven me wild!

"I met my husband through a prominent Boston business man. Thirteen days later he proposed to me and I accepted him.

"On the thirteenth day of our engagement, which chanced to be June 13, 1921, we were married by Justice of the Peace John D. Angelo, who lives at No. 13 Grant street, Dorchester.

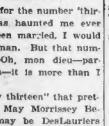
"It was thirteen months after that William confessed to me that his name was really DesLauriers, and that he had a wife in Montreal. I went to the District Attorney's office, and——

"And I'll bet you six buttons that this marriage will be annulled on the thirteenth of the month!"

YOUNG WOOD DODGES SHERIFFS AS HE WEDS

New York, Nov. 15.—Leonard Wood, Jr., son of Governor General Wood of the Philippines, discomfited a process server by shifting the date and place of his marriage.

Announcement had been made that he would marry Dolores Graves of San Francisco, an ingenue playing in his stock company at Lancaster, Pa., the little Church Around the Corner, or in St. Mary's of the Angels, Brooklyn.



Leonard Wood, Jr.

The Actors' Equity Association has been trying to serve Wood with a summons and complaint in a suit to collect unpaid salaries for players in his stock company, which collapsed at Fall River in September. One of Wood's friends said he had decided to be married in Washington today.

Won by a motorcycle.
Lost by radio.

That sums the married life of Mrs. Helen M. Hayes, the "Radio Widow."

Her husband, Arthur, dark-haired little electrician at Harvard Medical School, petitioned the courts to grant an injunction to prevent their star boarder from continuing to live at their home or communicate with his wife.

Mrs. Hayes retaliated by instituting proceedings for divorce. They live at No. 45 Birch street, Roslindale. The star boarder is Lawton Pierce, ex-Gob, tall and handsome.

WOOED HIS RADIO.

Lawton alienated his wife's affections, Hayes charges.

Not at all, retorts the lady. "Lawton was my good friend and parrot nurse."

She has two, Bill and Happy. They are green and shrill.

When Mrs. Hayes steps into court she will give as grounds for divorce all the grievances suffered by a "Radio Widow."

She will charge cruel and abusive treatment, alleging that—

Her husband sat up until all hours in the morning clipping every radio item he could find in every newspaper he could lay his hands on.

He wooed distant broadcasting stations instead of her.

UP AT 5 A. M.

He would stay up until midnight varying wave lengths to pick up broadcasting marts, then rise at 5 o'clock in the morning to catch something from Los Angeles.

When he picked up something of interest such an an election or fight return he would refuse to tell her what it was.

The radio occupied his hours so he slept by himself.

She had to play solitaire while he wooed messages or clipped items.

WOKE HER TO SHAVE.

After an evening alone with her cards she would retire at 11 o'clock. At 12:30 or later as she was nicely sleeping he would come into her room, turn on the light and shave.

This occurred nightly.

"Imagine," she said today, as she sat by her pet parrots, with Molly, the cat, in her lap and Cleopatra, the dog, at her feet, "I once thought he was the most wonderful man I had ever met. I loved the very ground he walked on.

"You know I was in business then in Boston. I ran an automobile accessory store. This was twelve years ago. I had a motorcycle and loved to ride it.

"One day in came a youth with a motorcycle to be fixed. It was Arthur Hayes. He looked into my eyes and I into his.

"He was an electrician and I guess he caused an electric spark to pass between us. I thrilled I know, and so did he. It was love—love at first sight.

CYCLE ROMANCE.

"He asked me to go for a spin. I did. He rode his 'cycle, I rode mine. We made many excursions into the country. They were glorious.

"One day at a roadside he asked for my hand. Inside a month we were married.

"Then a year ago we were happy. Then he bought a radio outfit.

"Marry again!" she said looking up. "Maybe. But—never to a radio fan. Once a radio widow is enough for anyone."

GREEK GENERALS SENTENCED TO DEATH

Athens, Nov. 15.—A court at Kleusis has sentenced to death Generals Leonardopoulos and Garalides and Majors Avramboss and Nicolareas, leaders of the recent revolutionary movement. Many other officers of high rank involved in the revolt were sentenced to imprisonment for life or for long terms.

LOVE FLED BEFORE BROADCAST

ARTHUR HAYES

MRS. HELEN M. HAYES

Wife of Harvard Medical School electrician says his love inspired by motorcycling rides vanished with the advent of the radio. She is now suing for divorce as a reply to his attempt to secure an injunction against their star boarder.

PAVE WAY FOR LLOYD GEORGE AS PREMIER

London, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The question whether Mr. Asquith or Mr. Lloyd George would assume the leadership of the reunited Liberal party, which has been exciting the greatest interest in view of the deep-rooted political animosity between these two statesmen, appears to have been settled quietly at their peace meeting on Tuesday.

No official announcement has been forthcoming from the Liberal headquarters. In fact, this issue has been carefully avoided by the Liberal politicians and the Liberal press, but political experts in a position to know the facts say the situation is this:

Mr. Lloyd George has agreed to work with and under Mr. Asquith, in view of the latters' position as the elder statesman and leader of the third strongest party in the House as that body is constituted at present, the Labor party being the second and the Lloyd George party ranking fourth.

Should the Liberals be successful in the election, Mr. Asquith will be asked to form a Cabinet, in which Mr. Lloyd George would be second in command.

But Mr. Asquith, it is asserted, having thus preserved his dignity, would quietly retire from the Premiership at the expiration of a few months, upon which Mr. Lloyd George would assume the leadership of the Liberals and fill again his old role of Prime Minister.

The difficulties the Conservatives are encountering in bringing Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain back into the fold are dimming their prospects. The Conservative newspapers admit Mr. Chamberlain will be unable to join the government because of difficulties over the tariff and that also the party will not have the services of Lord Birkenhead in its campaign.

FIVE INDICTED FOR HORSE RACE FRAUDS

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 15.—St. John's county grand jury has returned indictments against five alleged confidence men, one a former vice-president of a local bank, charging they defrauded Marcus H. Blumenthal of Cleveland, O., out of $19,850 by claiming to have advance information on horse races. The men indicted are Dave Cowan, alias Henry N. Sachs, Ben A. Myers, G. H. Watson, alias Edward Louis, Edward F. Lewis and Alvaros E. Baya.

Lament of the Radio Wife

He used to quaff the flowing bowl
And stumble in at dawn.
He answered all my questions
With a growl, or just a yawn.
The father of my children,
Who was once a regular guy,
Was always full of mucilage
Until the land went dry.

Now times have changed,
He never leaves
The fireside at all,
But puts the mufflers on his ears
And listens for a call.
Sometimes he hears from China, and
From Asia Minor, but,
He's a dummy to his family—
Poor old dad's a radio nut.

M'ADOO WILL RUN FOR PRESIDENT

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15.—Commenting on a statement made in Chicago today by David L. Rockwell that friends of William G. McAdoo intend to nominate him as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Mr. McAdoo said here today that "Mr. Rockwell has stated the situation accurately."

Wm. G. McAdoo.

McAdoo is convinced that the federal government can both reduce federal taxation and provide soldiers' compensation, equivalent to a bonus, he declares, in a statement made public today.

YOUTH KILLS SELF BY ACCIDENT

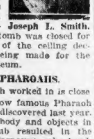
Springfield, Nov. 15.—Ralph T. Belzer, twenty-one years old, of No. 153 North Main street, shot himself through the chest in the office of the Fred T. Ley Construction Company, State street, today. He was an employe of the company. Medical Examiner Fred Jones declared the shooting accidental. A revolver lay a few inches from the body. Josephine Brown, an office clerk, talked with Belzer two minutes before his body was found. He was in excellent spirits then, she said.

HUB MAN NEAR DEATH IN TOMB OF PHARAOHS

Word reached Boston today that the "Curse of the Pharaohs" had reached out and almost crushed to death a Boston artist.

He is Joseph Linden Smith of No. 93 Mt. Vernon street.

Making copies of paintings in the tomb of Rameses II. in the Valley of the Kings, the cellar suddenly collapsed. A huge boulder weighing nearly a ton grazed Smith's head to crash at his side. The artist fled and the tomb was closed for repairs. Copies of the ceiling decorations were being made for the Boston Art Museum.



Joseph L. Smith.

WARNING OF PHARAOHS.

The tomb Smith worked in is close to that of the now famous Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen discovered last year. Removal of the body and objects in the latter's tomb resulted in the death of Lord Carnavon, who headed the expedition that discovered the tomb. His Lordship was stung by a poisonous insect. He died soon after.

Superstitious persons scorned at the insect idea and said Lord Carnavon had been made a victim of the "curse of the Pharaohs," which was that whosoever saw fit to desecrate a tomb should die.

Was it a Pharaoh's hand that reached from the grave for the painter's life?

HONORED BY SULTAN

In 1904 and 1905 Mr. Smith was present at the discovery of the tomb of the parents of Queen Tiy, and of the Queen in 1907. In Boston, he executed mural paintings in the Public Library, and at Philadelphia he did mural decorations on the exterior of Horticultural Hall.

He has done work in Egypt, Turkey, Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, Cambodia, Java and southern India. During the World War he did relief work in France, Belgium and Italy. He served one year with the Y. M. C. A. as head of the soldier talent development department.

While in Constantinople making copies for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts he received from the Sultan the decoration of the third order of Medjidieh.

HOLD YOUTH FOR ATTACK ON HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

Raymond Murphy, twenty-year-old son of Francis E. Murphy of No. 25 Marion street, Winchester, was arraigned in the Woburn District Court today on the charge of attacking Miss Sophie Esperito, a Winchester High School girl, a State ward, living with Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Carr at No. 139 Highland avenue in that town.

Miss Esperito's condition is so serious that she could not appear in court and the case against young Murphy was continued one week. He was held in $5,000 bail.

According to the Winchester police Miss Esperito was pursued by three young men when she was returning to her home from Winchester Centre shortly after dark on Monday. She ran into Molly Spring road, on the edge of the Middlesex Fells Reservation. Here she became exhausted and could run no further, although her home was not far away.

She struggled and screamed for help until a horseman named Dean, who was riding in the Fells, galloped to her aid. Her assailants disappeared in the woods.

HUSTIS FAVORS R. R. TRUNK LINE PLAN

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 15.—Trunk line consolidation of New England railroads was favored by President James H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine in an address at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here. "New England must adjust itself to certain changed and changing conditions and be prepared to meet them as they arise," he said. "The Boston & Maine, preferring to be let alone, still recognizes the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to prepare a plan for consolidation and also that, situated as it is it may not be able to realize full benefits of the act except through consolidation. If consolidation must come, the logical form would be an East and West system, called the trunk line plan, rather than the New England plan."

RABBIT HUNTERS ARE TREED BY BUCK DEER

Winsted, Ct., Nov. 15.—Clifford Vogellus, Gregory Johnson and James Pendergast, while rabbit hunting with a dog near the Riverton road, were startled when a buck deer bore in sight chasing their hound.

The youthful hunters hurriedly climbed a tree, where they remained until after midnight, when a farmer, hearing their cries and the barking of the dog, went to their rescue with a shepherd dog which drove off the deer.

ULTIMATUM ON CHESTER RIGHTS

U. S. Development Given Until November 25 to Fulfill Conditions

London, Nov. 15.—A dispatch from Angora says Turkey has sent Colonel Clayton-Kennedy, representing the Ottoman-American Development Company, new conditions regarding the so-called Chester concessions demanding assurance they be fulfilled by November 25.

The dispatch adds that if the American company cannot meet these conditions, the Turkish government may award the concessions to Hugo Stinnes, the German iron magnate.

Under agreement negotiated with the Grand National Assembly of Turkey the concession rights were to lapse if work was not begun by November 9.

Colonel Kennedy, now in London, said today operations were started ten days ago and that it was illegal for the Angora government to set new conditions. He discredited the idea that the Turks would award the concessions to Herr Stinnes.

"One of Stinnes' representatives," he continued, "approached me on the matter and I declined to see him. British, French and other foreign interests have also been after the concessions, but the contract has been definitely awarded to Americans and the work will be carried out by Americans.

"At the present moment we have a staff of ten engineers, with the necessary workmen, employed on the first part of the railroad line from Samsun to Sivas."

FREE WOMAN SLAYER ON COUNCIL'S ORDER

Mrs. Annie de Parli of Worcester, who slew Salvatore Mattuel after he had committed a criminal assault upon her, has been freed from the Worcester State hospital by Governor Cox and the Executive Council. Mrs. de Parli was committed last April. Dr. George M. Kline, alienist and commissioner of mental diseases, testified before the council that he had examined Mrs. de Parli recently and found her sane. It was also shown that Mattuel was attempting to take Mrs. de Parli away from her small children to Springfield as a white slave.

COOLIDGE FACES UP-HILL BATTLE TO RETAIN LEAD IN G. O. P.

WILL HAVE TO BEAR HARDING FAILURES AND MISTAKES

ARTICLE III.

In previous articles published in the Boston American, John T. Lambert, who has followed President Coolidge's career more closely than any newspaper man, has shown how the chief executive took up his duties amid a strange mixture of favorable and adverse conditions. Certain elements of strength in his position have been cited. Herewith are given some of the weaknesses and handicaps.

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Not everything is smooth sailing for President Coolidge. He is faced by enough handicaps to make an American Indian's sullen scowl look like a smile of joy.

Upon his ascension to the White House he was hailed as an outstanding 100 per cent. marvel. Here was the man who could cut the Gordian knot. "Nothing was hard or impossible for him." No problem but what he could surmount it.

Every wheat farmer would become a millionaire in a week. Europe would take one look at him and, with a cheerful surge, pull itself up by the bootstraps. On each failure he will probably collect inversely from that sort of slap which was put out by the sycophantic favor courtiers.

He is almost without personal friends at court. In addition to Ted Clark, his personal secretary; Frank W. Stearns, his Pythias; William M. Butler, political strategic superb, and "Tom" White, an old crony, there is hardly a person who calls at the White House frequently who would feel obliged to swear primary personal allegiance to the President.

FIRST REQUEST

C. B. Slemp his political secretary, is himself a man of affairs, a successful busines man and politician who is answering the call of a buzzer for the first time in his life. He is a Republican, first, last and all the time.

There may spring up between him and the President a personal attachment which would cause him to jump off Washington Monument for the President if need be, but the fact is that Mr. Slemp was appointed at the request of Old Guardsmen who pressed the suggestion that there should be someone close to the President with the experience to co-ordinate the best efforts of the executive and legislative branches of government, while here and there watching out that no party fence should decay for lack of attention. It was their first request when he became President. He was hardly in a position to refuse the first one.

In his Cabinet are three men who themselves have been candidates for the presidency and who may be forgiven if they still nourish that commendable ambition. Mr. Hughes took part in one canvas, being defeated by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Weeks was a candidate for the Republican nomination at the convention which finally chose to send Mr. Hughes against the anti-gladiatorial shibboleth, "He kept us out of war," and for a time led Mr. Hughes in the convention balloting. Mr. Hoover was a candidate at the last Republican convention.

In Mr. Coolidge's official family there is not an uncle or a cousin or a sister or an aunt who was appointed by him. All were selected by Mr. Harding. Nowhere, among all the department heads the country over, is a single man who can say that he owes Mr. Coolidge his appointment, or his allegiance, other than that he should pay his debt of faithful service to the head of the country he serves. There again, the relationship is impersonal.

HOSTILES IN CONGRESS

The friendly critics who have studied Mr. Coolidge with an eye to accuracy have felt that what he may lack in creative instinct he makes up in his rare ability to give a splendid judgment on any given set of facts. The conditions he found now cause him to draw his facts from almost exclusively reactionary sources. There are no LaFollettes, Borahs, Ladds, Wheelers in frequent touch to give him the other side of the picture.

He also faces a hostile gang in Congress. There, too, are many gentlemen within his own party—some as thoroughly Republicans as Senator "Jim" Watson—who would give their right eye for the seat he holds and who may be expected to kick over any old bucket of hot tar that might land on his feet.

They constitute a very solid group, who will ride along tractably with him on most everything that is ultra-reactionary and favorable to the intrenched favor-seeking corporation, but who will break with him on everything that smacks of progressiveness and will seek to outmaneuvre him on every un-allied subject in which personal advantage may be gained. The reader may recall the last half of Henry Ford's statement.

He has most to fear and most to gain from the little band of fighting progressives headed by Senator Robert M. LaFollette. They will be against him inherently. They will be the first to defend any show of liberalism in him. They may be able to drive in a wedge that would separate him on many occasions from the opposite wing of his party. In that event, the Old Guardsmen who surround him will think of plans to switch the delegates at the next convention to some candidate other than Coolidge, notwithstanding the personal desires of the delegates in such an important matter.

INHERITS ALL

If they all get unruly, then what? Could he go successfully before the public next fall and say to them, "I tried my hardest to do something but they were all against me?"

He inherited all of Mr. Harding's failures, of which he must pay the inheritance tax of loss of public favor by the Republican party. He was the understudy of the Harding administration. Its success and failures will fall in part upon his shoulders. He will profit or suffer by the generally good or generally bad reputation of the Republican party as built by Mr. Harding and which he cannot totally unmake in the short period before him.

Muscle Shoals is to be investigated by Congress. Why was it turned over to the Alabama Power Company when the air had been filled with rumors of the presence of a powerful lobby representing the Nitrate Trust, Aluminum Trust, Bauxite Trust and Power Trust?

Teapot Dome is under investigation. Why were the valuable oil wells given to private corporations secretly, thereby depriving the government of the fuel needed to run the navy and aeroplanes for defence when a foreign foe thunders at our coast?

The country is now hearing the sordid revelations of how the millions apportioned from the people's treasury for care of aimless, legless, insane veterans were squandered at the drunken parties of the profligate officials.

BLAZE HIS TRAIL

Many other investigations will be demanded. A Congress full of Democrats, sincere liberals and a dozen prospective candidates for President will be only too glad to yield to the demand. A great deal of time will be wasted by the searchers for that nomination, which can prove as worthless in 1924 as it was recently to Taft and Hughes.

The White House is no longer evidencing a desire to "carry out the policies of Mr. Harding." The mourning period has passed. A Cabinet could not be turned over in ninety days if the man who fell heir to it had no desires.

Mr. Coolidge has now begun to blaze his own trail. Coolidge policies are now being written.

Social Whirl On in Full Swing, Betty Alden Reports

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE trimly uniformed figure at the wheel of Rolling Arrows of Piercing-Royces may register woodenness of expression 100 per cent. perfect.

But underneath that wonderful mask of his he's a pretty man. For the curtain of the social stage is up—and the show is on.

Which means that James—we'll call him that, though he often has a far more fancy name than that—has to watch his accelerator.

He mustn't forget that Dad is due at the office around nine; Madame has planned a shopping trip for the morning; Miss Olivia must be driven to her luncheon engagement; Madame is attending a bazaar being held early in the afternoon for her pet charity; Miss Rosamond is attending a debutante tea at four; Madame has a reception on her program shortly after, and at five o'clock Dad must be called for at the office; in the evening there's the ball at which Miss Olivia's bound to be one of the belles; Dad's trip to the club, and perhaps Madame's lecture, to which Dad refused to accompany her.

That isn't a particularly busy day for James either, but it probably helps to give an idea of some of the duties he has besides looking trim. Don't forget that during his day's work he mustn't be careless and leave any members of the family stranded anywhere. He must get them back as well as there.

MISS LORAINE LEESON

Miss Leeson, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Leeson, was one of the pourers at a reception given for Miss Margaret Warner.

MISS LORAINE LEESON, 2nd daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Leeson of Commonwealth avenue, was among those presiding at the tea-tables at the reception which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eldrige Warner gave at the Chilton Club to introduce their daughter, Miss Margaret Warner.

Another pourer was Miss Olga Frothingham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Langdon Frothingham, who was presented last year. There are a number of functions on the cards in honor of Miss Leeson.

SPEAKING of the hectic whirl spinning around the debutantes—the buds and their cavaliers are sure to have a jolly time at the reception which Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Webster are giving this afternoon to present their daughter, Miss Mary ("Polly") Webster. The affair takes place at street house which the Websters purchased some time ago from Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames. Some of the debs and a group of Harvard men are staying on for supper and informal dancing in the evening.

THIS SHOWS HOW MELLON'S PLAN HITS INCOMES

Washington, Nov. 15.—The extent to which Federal income taxes paid on earned incomes up to $15,000 would be reduced under the program for general reductions advocated by Secretary Mellon is shown in the table below.

The compilation is made from statistics supplied by Treasury Department experts. The table deals only with the effect of the proposed tax changes on net incomes of single persons and those who are heads of families having two dependent children.

Effect of the proposed new rates on other classes of taxpayers has not been worked out by the Government experts.

PROTEST 'FAKE' PORTRAIT AT THE LOUVRE

Paris, Nov. 15.—Another storm is brewing in the art world. It centres about the portrait of Marquise D'Orvilliers, by David, bequeathed to the Louvre by Countess Fitzjames and accepted by the council of the Museum.

Connoisseurs strongly protest against hanging the picture in the Louvre, asserting it not an original. Those taking this view include the eminent painters Gabriel Ferrier, Henri Gervex and Louis Carrier Belleuse.

The countess bought the portrait from the Marquis Turenne D'Aynac, a descendant of the marquise, for the Louvre was an original.

HAP WARD'S $30,000 ACT IS A RECORD

Hap Ward has the distinction of receiving more money for a single performance than any other actor on the American stage. He appeared in the opening night of the Follies in a comedy sketch. The show was too long and Ward's act was deleted. He sued Flo Ziegfeld for $150,000 and the man who has made millions glorifying the American girl settled for $30,000.

100,000 francs after it had been the subject of a lawsuit in 1908.

Another descendant of the marquise, Count Andiau, sent in that year an unsigned portrait of his ancestress to an exhibition of David's works. The marquis endeavored to obtain a court injunction restraining Louvre, asserting it not an original. Those taking this view include the eminent painters Gabriel Ferrier, Henri Gervex and Louis Carrier Belleuse.

The art experts declared in favor of the unsigned portrait. The court, however, found the picture given to the Louvre was an original.

Worcester, Nov. 15.—The home of Chester E. Wade at No. 130 Westchester street, was razed by fire through his failure to secure telephonic communication with fire headquarters in time to summon apparatus. For a Friend in Need

Friends are always in need. In need of some little thing which for one reason or another they do not wish to buy for themselves. It is the noticing of such needs and remembering them at Christmas time which makes gifts from some people seem almost inspired.

Many people are tired of their old monograms. One of the new illuminated monograms engraved on a generous supply of one of the English papers will fill an ungratified desire.

In some homes there is a table in a dark corner which could be delightfully brightened with a piece of colored glass.

Most men affect to despise gold or silver personal trinkets. They are afraid of being made fun of if they openly show a liking for a gold knife, a silver cigarette case, or an amber cigar holder. If such a thing is a gift, they can happily use it as an alibi for their enjoyment.

No woman who loves beads ever had too many strings. Earrings are lengthening along with the skirts.

A little time spent in visiting our different departments will do much to lessen the problems on your Christmas list.

COOLIDGE FINDS FARMERS SOUND

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15.—President Coolidge sees as one of the most cheering signs of the times the fact that farmers may be relied upon to use sound judgment on questions that affect agriculture.

"It seems popular in some quarters to assume farmers would not think in terms of safe and sound economics," the chief executive said in a letter to Robert W. Bingham, chairman of the executive commission of the National Council of Cooperative Marketing Associations of the United States.

"To the contrary, my experience has been that the farmers could be relied upon to employ particularly good sense and sound judgment in consideration of these questions."

The President's letter was in reply to a telegram from Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times, and engaged in development of the marketing associations.

3 LYNN GIRLS IN VOW TO SHUN FATHER

Three teen sisters, who have vowed never to speak to their father again "as long as we live," will take the stand in behalf of their mother, Mrs. Mattie G. Grant, attractive restaurant cashier, of No. 83 Liberty street, Lynn, when the latter's suit for divorce is heard in Salem Superior Court.

Mrs. Grant, who is thirty-eight years old, charges her husband, Lewis E. Grant, formerly of Lynn, now of Cincinnati, O., with cruel and abusive treatment and neglect to provide for her and their four children.

The wife also asks for the custody of the four children, Grace, eighteen; Blanche, seventeen; Ruth, twelve, and David, thirteen.

The three girls promise to testify in court to various indictments in their home when their father is alleged to have abused their mother.

Since his departure from Lynn, the girls declare, Grant has returned on many occasions, but has never visited or inquired about his family. On occasions when they met him on the street, the girls said, they crossed to the other side to avoid him.

Laddie Boy Proves His Fighting Ability in Scrap With Collie

Laddie Boy, airedale pet of the late President Harding and former idol of the White House, has proved himself a fighter as well as a social idol.

His opponent, Jeff, a collie owned by William J. Cozens, a neighbor of Harry Barker of the United States Secret Service, Laddie Boy's present owner, was the aggressor.

Jeff entered the Highland drug store on Woodward street, Newton, to find Laddie Boy lying at the feet of Mr. and Mrs. Cozens. Barker was also there. In the conflict which ensued, Laddie Boy accounted for himself well, until the masters of both dogs called off the battle.

HOG CHOLERA BOBS UP IN NEW PLACES

Washington, Nov. 15.—Hog cholera is becoming more prevalent this Fall than in any year since the decline of the last extensive outbreak which reached its height in 1914, the Department of Agriculture announced today. Reports show the disease has appeared recently in communities which have been free from it for twenty-five years. Unless hog owners act promptly, department experts declare, the losses will be unusually heavy.

FRAUDULENT AD CONVICTS HARRY PLOTKIN

Harry Plotkin of the firm of Plotkin Brothers, dealers in women's apparel, No. 19 Arlington street, Back Bay, was convicted in Suffolk Superior Court of fraudulent advertising on one count and not guilty on another. On a third, the court instructed the jury to disregard it, on the grounds that a Boston newspaper representative appeared in court and stated the matter in question was a typographical error.

By a technical default Plotkin was not in court when the jury came in, but appeared today. He was to come before Judge Sanderson late this afternoon for sentence, which must be fine.

The count on which he was convicted was advertising a cape under a false brand. Question of a brand of silk was involved in the count on which he was found not guilty.

The trial occupied three days. Representatives of the Boston Better Business Commission appeared for the State. Assistant District Attorney O'Connell prosecuted the case. Plotkin pleaded the fraud was not intentional and brought a manufacturer's representative as one witness.

SWISS ROMANCE RESULTS IN CALIFORNIA ENGAGEMENT

The engagement of Miss Helen Rodolph, an Oakland, Calif., society belle, to Lawrence Ames, son of Mrs. George Hutchinson of West Newton and the late George H. Ames, is announced today in dispatches from the coast.

The romance began in fashionable St. Moritz, Switzerland, last Winter when Miss Rodolph and her parents were there for the Winter sports. They met Ames, whose New England training on ice and snow and whose natural athletic abilities made him a prominent figure in the St. Moritz sports.

Ames is a graduate of Amherst. He served in the Ambulance Corps in France prior to the arrival of the American forces, later was a lieutenant in the American air forces. The couple met later in London, where Ames was employed by the American Leather Company. When the Rodolphs returned to America Ames resigned his position and accompanied them to Oakland. The wedding will occur in the Spring.

GORDON POSED AS MESSENGER OF KING

Dr. Gordon J. Raymond, international crook, was arraigned before Judge James M. Morton, Jr., in the United States District Court and held in $5,000 bail on charges of impersonating Federal officers.

G. J. Raymond

In tracing Raymond, operatives of the Department of Justice have unearthed the story of an alleged life of crime that reads almost like fiction. Raymond spent all Summer living in expensive style at the Essex Hotel, Salem and more than a score of men and women whom he is charged with defrauding in that city, appeared today to testify before the Federal Grand Jury.

One of his victims in Salem is Mrs. Amelia Crem, a 63-year-old chambermaid in the Essex Hotel, whom he is charged with having duped of her life's savings amounting to $1,600.

CAUGHT THROUGH WOMAN

He was arrested in New York after Agent Dan Casey of the Department of Justice trailed a Salem woman who went there to meet him.

His claim that he was a confidential agent of the British government and one of the "King's Messengers" was borne out by the possession of an embossed card which bore the lion and unicorn of the British arms and which read:—"On his Majesty's Service. This is to certify that Gordon J. Raymond is in the service as King's Messenger. All persons are ordered to be at his service."

A gold five starred badge with a flying eagle bore the identification of "C. 42."

BADGE WAS FAKE

His claim to being a British messenger was soon disproved as it is known that the symbol of that branch of the British service is a running greyhound.

One of his schemes for obtaining money from his alleged victims was posing as the inventor of a muffler for aeroplane engines. He asserted it is claimed, that his patent had been accepted by the British and American war departments and that he needed ready money to finish him over until he received his royalties of several thousand dollars.

Pantomime Shows Store Employes Five Simple Ways to Catch Colds

JORDAN MARSH HEALTH CAMPAIGN AS SEEN BY HARMONY

WOMAN HELD IN LOOTING OF OLD MAN'S ESTATE

A fight to protect the fortune of a ninety-year-old man has begun with the arrest on a Grand Jury indictment of Mrs. Harriet Peterson, who owns a restaurant on Atlantic avenue and lives at No. 189 Everett street, East Boston.

Mrs. Peterson is alleged to have made use of $5,400 belonging to William Linnehan, who is in a sanitarium.

Suspicions of officials of the Co... Trust Company of East Boston led to the appointment as Linnehan's guardian of Thomas Rice, an attorney, who investigated and discovered the alleged larceny.

Two years ago, it is alleged, Mrs. Peterson bought the Everett street house from Linnehan, and by agreement he remained there and was cared for by the purchaser and her mother.

Linnehan's wife had died, leaving an estate of $30,000 and he received more than one-third. It is charged that Linnehan presented Mrs. Peterson with orders on his bank balance and that she withdrew large amounts, but that now he has no recollection of signing the orders.

It is alleged that Mrs. Peterson was made sole beneficiary in a new will which the old man made, to the exclusion of his favorite charities and many relatives.

Jordan Marsh Company Arranges Object Lesson for Its Working Staff

"Five Simple Rules For Catching Cold," a pantomime playlet, the second in the store's health campaign, was presented before 450 employes at the Jordan Marsh Company's store today. The actors, all members of the sales force, played their parts well.

Dr. H. W. Stevens, store doctor, gave an interesting lecture on "Cold Facts." "Five simple rules for catching cold," he said, "are poor ventilation, overeating, over-heating, late hours and germs.

"Perhaps the easiest way to catch cold," he said, "is to go without sleep. Loss of sleep impairs our condition. Everyone should have at least eight hour's sleep nightly.

The first scene, portraying the evils of poor ventilation, was played by Clifford Keith, floor superintendent. The rule for the second scene, an example of over-eating, was, according to Miss Marjorie Sumpter, interlocutor, "Eat her out of house and home." W. F. Larrabee played the part of the "over-eating husband," and Mrs. Mary Carroll that of the underfed wife. Mrs. Mary Baker was the maid.

Miss Helen Carroll, conveniently, "hugging a red-hot stove," exemplified the third rule, "over-heating." A sound lesson in the evil of keeping late hours was taught in the fourth scene. Seated in a stuffy room, four men played poker and smoked cigarettes. It was 3 a. m. The actors were Robert De Minico, R. H. Edwards, Jr., Robert Mitton and Saul Butman.

The last scene, probably the most true to life, was called "Payment in Terms of Germs." Miss Carita Ferrall played the part of saleslady, with Mrs. Elisabeth Darling the customer. Angered by the repeated sneezing of the saleslady, the customer left the stored ingustedly.

GALLIVAN IS GIVEN LIE IN LEGION FUSS

James F. Anderson, secretary of the Suffolk County Council, American Legion, declares that statements of Congressman Gallivan quoting Anderson as saying that National Commander Quinn of the Legion was a Klansman are "absolutely false," and that "in fairness, Congressman Gallivan should apologize."

Anderson in his statement calls upon Gallivan to name the real sources of his information.

"Dr. William H. Griggin, commander of Suffolk County Council, and I were standing in the lobby of Young's Hotel when Congressman Gallivan walked by," Anderson said. "He walked up, and after shaking hands said: '

"'What did you follows do out there—elect a Ku Klux Klanner as National commander?' he said.

"I answered no—Quinn is not a Ku Klux Klanner. He did belong, but he got out of it when he found out what it was."

Congressman Gallivan also named Major General Loran and Thomas F. Foley as authorities for his statement relative to Quinn.

In a subsequent conversation with Anderson, Congressman Gallivan said he was told that Quinn had resigned from the Klan, but that "nobody believes it," Anderson declares.

WIFE ACCUSED OF "STEALING" OWN HUSBAND

New York, Nov. 15.—Mr. Anna Conover, wife of Major John Thomas Conover, was charged today with luring, capturing and monopolizing the affections of her own husband. She admits the charge and wants to know "why not." But as a result of her relationship with her husband she has been named corespondent in a divorce action brought by her predecessor, Mrs. Teresa Maxwell Conover, a former actress.

It all came about when "The Purple Lady," which is the glamorous pseudonym of the first Mrs. Conover, appeared in New York recently and hired a lawyer. It now develops, with the filing of her divorce papers, that Mrs. Conover No. 1 is of the belief that she was never properly succeeded. In other words, since Major Conover married her in New York and his second wife in Pennsylvania after being divorced in that State, the second marriage doesn't count in New York courts.

So Mrs. Conover No. 1 is now going to get the divorce, she says.

According to David W. Blumenthal, the defendant's attorney, Major Conover divorced his wife for abandonment in Pennsylvania in 1915, after she had shown a preference for an Italian captain named Vanzantini. The first Mrs. Conover, he said, was simply trying to take an improper advantage of the confusion in divorce laws that existed from State to State.

SHEIKS AND FAIRIES DANCE AT SHEPARD'S

Sweet as Norton maid, second and third original, Wilmot Fisher as a country rube, and third, by Rita Nona, O'Malley as "Yes, We Have No Bananas." Guests of honor were John Shepard, 3rd; Willam H. Keane, Joseph O'Shaughnessy and Beatty Stevens.

BELIEVE MAN LEAPED INTO NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Discovery of two coats and an overcoat at Prospect Point, on the brink of the American Falls in the Niagara River, led reservation police to believe that a man had leaped over the cataract today. A letter addressed to Mrs. Sophia Kenning, New York city, read: "You will be sorry when you do not see me again and know what I have done."

PORTUGAL CABINET HAS FALLEN AGAIN

London, Nov 15 (I.N.S.)—Portugal was without a government today due to the failure of Dr. Menezes to form a cabinet, said a Central News dispatch from Lisbon. It added that Alfonso Costapda will be invited to form a new ministry.

Since the republic was proclaimed Portugal has had a change in government every month on an average.

MRS. ST. GAUDENS' APM BROKEN IN FALL

Claremont, N. H., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Augustus St. Gaudens, widow of the noted sculptor whose studio was for many years at Cornish, N. H., near here, is at the hospital suffering with a fracture of the left arm. Mrs. St. Gaudens suffered a fall at her Cornish home, as she was about to leave for Florida.

OFFERED $5,000 TO KIDNAP 2 CHILDREN

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 15 (I.N.S.).—Efforts to locate Robert P. Gamble, wealthy New Yorker, following an alleged attempt to kidnap his two small children, were fruitless today. It as believed he had sought seclusion in order to avoid publicity.

E. J. Maxwell, New Jersey cabinet maker and C. M. Mims of Jacksonville were in jail charged with attempting to abduct the two children in a taxicab. They admitted, according to the officers, that they were acting under instructions from a third party, who offered $5,000 if they could deliver the children to a local hotel.

BUNNELL ACQUITTED OF VERMONT MURDER

Guildhall, Vt., Nov. 15.—Edgar Bunnell, Canaan farmer, was found not guilty of the murder of Job Cross, wealthy Canaan rentor and money lender.

The jury deliberated four and a half hours before returning the verdict of not guilty.

Since the arrest of Bunnell, his wife and children have lived with him in the small two-cell jail in Guildhall. They plan to return to their farm on Canaan Hill today.

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is truesy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

"USE LIQUID ARVON"

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy silky hair do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You will get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

WILLETT TELLS OF $3,000,000 LOAN TALKS

In the $15,000,000 suit of the Willett Sears Company against a group of Boston and New York banks and financiers at Dedham today, George F. Willett told of his meeting with several of the defendants in the directors' room of the First National Bank. He told of the preliminaries of raising the loan of $2,000,000, through which, he alleges, the bankers wrested from him manufacturing properties worth $10,000,000, at no considerable cost to themselves.

The meeting, he said, was in the third week in June, 1918. There were present, the witness said, Daniel G. Wing, president of the First National Bank; S. H. Fessenden of F. S. Moseley & Company, brokers; Raymond B. Cox president of the Webster & Atlas National Shawmut Bank, Charles F. Weed of the First National and Mr. Ripley were among those present.

WANTED QUICK ASSETS.

Willett said he was told that the bankers were going to make a loan of $3,000,000 to the Willett, Sears Company, provided the $750,000 slow assets of the company were converted into quick assets and someone in the bank crowd be given management of the finances of the Willett Company. The loan was to be for six months' duration, at 6 per cent. interest and a 6 per cent. bonus.

The witness said he had been prepared for the demand that the financial management of his properties be turned over to the banks by Fessenden. He had been told by Fessenden that Philip Stockton of the Old Colony Trust Company had severely criticised Willett's large expenditures on the properties

Willett said he agreed when Wing demanded the appointment of a financial agent for the companies, and suggested Edwin F. Green as a proper man. The name of Stewart Webb was also suggested.

DEFENDS POLICY.

Prior to this Willett had had a discussion with Fessenden, defending the position of himself and his partner in their policy of expansion. Fessenden declared, the witness said, that the banks were interested only in cash and quick assets. He said that the First National, Shawmut National, Webster and Atlas National City and other banks had agreed to make the loan, but were critical of the way Willett and Sears had spread their capital over so many industrial concerns.

The witness said that he was criticised for accepting an election as delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, and that he replied that he conceived it to be his duty to see it through.

NEGLECTING BUSINESS

The bankers, he said, thought he was neglecting his business for the public business, and was losing his grip on his financial affairs.

Fessenden, he said, had advised him to stick to the American Pail and the Daniel Green Felt Shoe companies and get rid of the others. Fessenden declared that if he would do this he would make so much money there would be no excuse for expansion.

STUDIO LIGHTS BLINDED GLORIA SWANSON

GLORIA SWANSON

New York, Nov. 15.—Quite still, in a darkened room of a small hotel off Park avenue, lies Gloria Swanson, cut off from the light of day by two cold and clammy cabbage leaves. On top of the cabbage leaves repose three strips of bacon. Superimposed on the bacon is an ice pack.

Miss Swanson suffers from kileg es, a malignant, painful inflamma on resulting from the burning brilliance of studio lights. She will not s able to return to the filming of The Humming Bird" at the Paramount Long Island Studios for several days.

"Downhearted? Not exactly," said Miss Swanson to a friend. "If I only had a bunch of carrots and a string of onions to hang on my ears I'd be a complete boiled dinner."

INDIAN TITLE DISCLAIMED BY MRS. CROKER

New York, Nov. 15.—Bula Edmondson Croker, young widow of Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall, to whom he willed his $3,000,000 estate, including his famous Castle Glencairn in Ireland, today said she is not a full-blooded Indian princess of the Cherokees.

One-sixteenth of the blood that courses her veins is Cherokee, she explained, but as far as she knows not a drop of it is of royal Indian lineage.

Bula E. Croker

Clad in mourning, Mrs. Croker sat in Justice Proskauer's part of Supreme Court where the latest legal proceedings in the will fight brought by her husband's disinherited children against her are being heard.

"Although I have never laid claim to being an Indian princess, I do say now that I am one-sixteenth Cherokee," she declared.

Her Indian ancestry can be proved by the records of the five civilized tribes, on file with the Secretary of the Interior in Washington, D. C., she said.

"My father, Michael Smith Edmondson, was a Scotchman," she explained. My mother is one-eighth Cherokee. Her father and mother were one-eighth Cherokee. My father is alive and makes his home at Palm Beach.

Denying that she is an Indian princess, Mrs. Croker told how that story about her was spread.

"The Cherokees, who, when De Soto came to America, lived in what is now Alcoma, always had a queen. In Washington, the day before Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated for his first term as President, I led a suffrage parade.

"I wore an Indian costume and rode a big black horse. The newspapers immediately wrote me up as being an Indian Princess. I had the title thrust upon me. That's all there's to it."

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Policeman Edward C. Post testified at the trial of Mrs. Mary Gryol that he entered Mrs. Grygol's home and found a man drinking what apparently was a bottle of milk. But the odor of the bottle belied its appearance, and picking it up he found that it had been painted to make moonshine look like milk. Mrs. Grygol was fined $100.

The funeral of Patrolman Arthur Donovan of Station 5, killed in an auto crash, was held from his late home, No. 16 Trenton street, Charlestown, today. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Francis de Sales Church by Rev. Edward J. Donovan of Columbus, O., brother of the dead man.

Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, Captain James McDevitt, Lieutenant John Anderson and other police officials attended. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford. PRIZEFIGHTER IS CHALLENGED BY PEARL WHITE

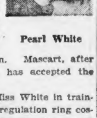
Paris, Nov. 15.—Pearl White, the American "petite diable de la movies," whose hair-raising, death-defying adventures in filmland have thrilled thousands, is seeking to alleviate her ennui by taking up prizefighting.



Pearl White

The little devil of the movies has issued a challenge to Mascart, the French featherweight champion. Mascart, after much hesitation, has accepted the challenge.

Snapshots of Miss White in training, wearing the regulation ring costumes adopted by the "cavemen" and abysmal brutes" of the ring, are in circulation and boulevardiers have broken their legs in the mad rush for ringside seats.

The battle will take place in the ring of the Folies Bergere on December 8 for the benefit of the Actors' Fund.

FIREMEN GUARD TOTS AT CROSSINGS

Springfield, Nov. 15.—Springfield was awed the sight of women traffic police at street crossings near schools when the city's firemen acted upon the police department assertion that it could not spare men to safeguard the children from autos, and volunteered in a body to do the safeguarding.

The mothers had threatened to get out and protect the children themselves when the police department declined to go through with the job.

VIRGIN BIRTH OF CHRIST IS REAFFIRMED

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A reaffirmation of faith in the "Virgin Birth of Christ and the Apostles' Creed" has been made by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

The pronouncement, adopted at a special meeting of the House of Bishops, points out a distinction between professions of belief in entire surrender to the triune God and belief in certain facts about the operation of the trinity.

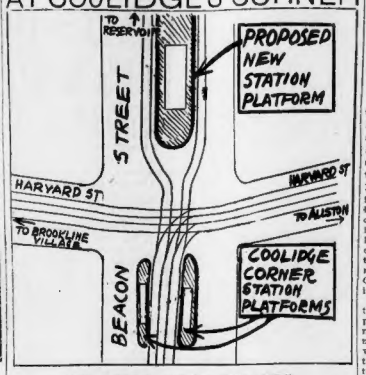
Bishop Rhinelander.

The House of Bishops emphatically goes on record in a reaffirmation of belief in every association of the Apostles' Creed, making such belief and teachings obligatory upon every "deacon, priest or bishop" of the church.

Laymen throughout the country petitioned the house that men in high places have brought confusion by apparent uncertainties of belief and had asked for reassurances concerning what were declared fundamentals of the Christian faith, the Virgin birth, the incarnation and the bodily resurrection of Christ.

The pronouncement was expected by those close to house members here today to terminate the controversial situation in which the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant of New York occupied the central position before the spotlight of public and denominational concern.

WOULD MOVE STATION AT COOLIDGE'S CORNER



PROPOSED NEW "ISLAND"

Plan proposed by the selectmen of Brookline would move the transfer island at Coolidge Corner from the east to the west side of the crossing at Beacon and Harvard streets. There was much opposition to the proposal at a hearing. Traffic congestion is great at his point.

OPPOSITION TO 'L' COOLIDGE'S CORNER PLAN

The proposition to change the transfer island at Coolidge's Corner, Brookline, from the eastern intersection of Harvard and Beacon streets to the western intersection, as put forward by the Selectmen of the town, is causing discussion in Brookline. The object of the change is to prevent automobile traffic from blocking up the square when three car trains of surface cars are loading and unloading passengers. At a hearing before James F. Jackson, chairman of the L trustees, only two hands were raised in a crowded roomful of Brookline citizens when Chairman Jackson called for a vote in favor of the proposition.

Chairman Charles F. Rowley of the Board of Selectmen presented plans, approved by the town planning board, which showed that, by moving the transfer station to the western side of the street longer trains could use it without detriment to the highway traffic.

Ex-Senator Charles H. Pearson said the plan would block off traffic on Harvard street, incommode street railway patrons and do no particular good.

Chairman Jackson said the L was in no shape to make a large outlay of money in making the change.

A protest to the proposed change containing 550 names, secured in a few hours' canvass, was presented.

YOU LEARN that the Texas baby is eight months old, and, having heard from Dr. Kerley, in New York, how eight-months' babies should be fed, you watch the Texas baby taking his 7:30 breakfast with his mother, and learn something about a Texas constitution.

The baby eats his share of his mother's baked apple, very sweet. While waiting for the oatmeal, he eats a very large slice of a raw apple, and needs no help in eating.

HE HAS his oatmeal and a piece of toast, and some egg, when the ham and eggs come—but eats no ham. "He has quite a mouthful of teeth, began having them very young, but he can't chew ham very well.

"He does not eat wheat cakes either, but takes some of the molasses from a spoon.

"He's like his father that way, very fond of sweet things."

NEVER A SOUND from this Texas baby, except two roars. The mother understands them both. The first means, "Give me water." He takes a long drink of iced water, with much ice floating in it.

The second roar means, "I'm tired of this high chair, take me." The mother takes him, and before she starts back to her Pullman car, the Texas baby is fast asleep.

"YES," SAYS the mother, "He's a very good baby. He'll go all day without making a sound, unless you get him angry. He's got a quick temper, like his father. What does he eat? Oh, pretty much what his father eats, only he hasn't got such a hearty appetite. But you'd be surprised to know how much he can eat."

WITH SUCH an empire, oil wells, and gas wells, gold and silver and copper mines, helium in the natural gas, to carry your flying machines, "black wax land" 20 feet deep, water power, forests, vast reservoirs, and especially such babies as that Texas baby, with such constitutions, there is no need to worry about this wide land.

The West will take care of the whole enterprise. If anything ever happens to the East. There is nothing in Europe, Asia or Africa that will frighten that baby from Texas, when he gets the rest of his teeth and grows to be a man.

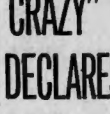
GALLI CURCI JEALOUS OF DIRECTOR'S WIFE, OTHER SINGERS SAY

"THEY'RE ALL CRAZY" MARY GARDEN DECLARES

By A. J. LORENZ

Chicago, Nov. 15 (Universal).—When Shakespeare called his stage a "cockpit," grand opera stars with artistic temperaments, were, are yet, undiscovered.

Today, however, the Chicago Civic Opera, from the call boy to director, from gallery God to box holder, is ensnarled in two belligerent camps over Galli-Curci's announcement that she would sing her final thrill in the Auditorium this season.



Mary Garden

While neither management nor star has anything further to add to the battle of telegrams of Tuesday night, the fighting spirit spread to other stars and to the public. Opponents are nearly evenly matched—those siding with Galli-Curci, and those with Samuel Insull, millionaire president of the association.

Galli-Curci made it plain today that she is not a "gas-house worker" when she elaborated on her controversy with the opera management. The latter had decreed that she must sing in "Lakme" in he first appearance here this season while she insisted on "Dinorah."

The president of the civic opera is head of the principal gas and electric utilities of Chicago.

"I do not hold one of big Tim Murphy's cards, and I cannot be ordered around like a gashouse worker," declared the star. "I will not submit to the steamroller tactics of Mr. Insull."

MARY GARDEN AMUSED.

Mary Garden, erstwhile director of the Chicago Opera Company joined in the fray from a northern battle-ground, St. Paul, where she is singing a concert engagement.

"They're all crazy," was Mary's jocularly laconic comment.

"You can say that Miss Garden said that Galli-Curci ought to go back, as a good example for the others. In Mr. Insull the opera has its first real business-like boss."

Miss Garden, for a year was "opera boss." She had her battle, one of them with Cecina Walska, in which the management was upheld with the result that the singer left in a huff. Then Lucien Muratore quit.

Mary laughed a defi that she too intended to leave Chicago opera at the close of the season and return to Paris "forever and forever."

JEALOUSY CHARGED.

A new figure entered the Galli Curci controversy in the form of pretty Edith Mason, wife of Maestro Giorgo Polacco, artistic director of the opera. According to reports current among the more belligerent members of the company the real reason for Galli Curci's resignation lies in the alleged purpose of Polacco to groom his wife to stardom at the expense of the noted Italian singer.

In "Dinorah," the opera Galli Curci insisted vainly to make her debut vehicle, the prima donna walks away with the honors of the evening without a semblance of effort, while in "Lakme," experience shows, the soprano may have to share honors with the tenor. In the case of Galli Curci, it would be Tito Schaupi.

Much depends on an auspicious seasonal deput, Galli Curci declared, demanding to sing "Dinorah" first and Lakme" afterward.

An ovation is not nearly so pleasing to a star when it must be shared with another, say the artists who know its thrills.

"REAL REASON" FOR DIVA'S RESIGNATION

EDITH MASON

Members of the Chicago Civic Opera say the real reason for Galli Curci's resignation lies in the alleged purpose of Director Giorgo Polacco to groom his wife, Edith Mason, to stardom at the Italian singer's expense. Galli-Curci appears below.

Providence, Nov. 15.—Policewomen again come into their own. Why they are has been demonstrated. Providence is "strong" for them.

Mrs. Evangeline Field, skirted member of Providence's "finest," saved the Central police station from being robbed.

Silverio Daddario, fifty years old, a city employe, was the victim. He left his coat in police station basement. When he went out with the coat, Mrs. Field spied a leather traveling bag hanging onto him. It was one confiscated in a recent raid. She hunted up a sargeant in pantaloons who did the rough stuff. Daddario pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Policewoman Field also recently located a fourteen-year-old girl runaway for whom the entire department was searching.

MANY COUNTERFEIT BILLS IN BOSTON

More counterfeit money is in circulation in Greater Boston than for many years, and chiefly because people, and especially small shopkeepers, are careless in not inspecting their $10 bills.

Harry L. Barker, New England chief of the U. S. secret service, said the particular bills that are causing the trouble are counterfeits of genuine notes of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

MIDGET SOUGHT IN WINCHESTER ROBBERIES

An adult dwarf clad in boy's clothes entered four homes in the exclusive residence district of Winchester and stole more than $5,000 worth of jewelry.

The robberies all took place during the daytime and within a few hours of each other.

The home of Amasa Harrington, No. 9 Sanborn street, Winchester, was entered through a sun porch and a front window by means of heavy screw drivers "borrowed" from the Harrington garage, while Mr. Harrington was at business and while Mrs. Harrington was shopping in Boston.

From a jewelry safe, concealed behind a wall panel, $100 in cash, a diamond Masonic ring presented to Mr. Harrington when he became past grand master of the William Parkman lodge in Winchester, two gold watches, and a quantity of smaller articles of jewelry were taken. The jewelry was valued at $1,500.

Frederick S. Snyder, No. 350 Highland avenue, of the Batchelder & Snyder Firm in Boston and a former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, returned home to find a $500 gold watch, a $400 platinum bar pin set with six diamonds and nine sapphires, and several hundred dollars worth of other jewelry had been taken.

Approximately $1,000 in jewelry was stolen from the home of Joseph Fenenden, No. 156 Mt. Vernon street, and jewelry estimated at $1,500, was stolen from the home of H. F. Connell, No. 15 Mystic avenue, both in Winchester.

LILA LEE HELPS FATHER ESCAPE COURT TRIAL

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Though a shortage of $250,000 is alleged in the accounts of Charles Appel, father of Lila Lee, the screen star, he will not face trial on embezzlement charges, report says. His noted daughter and her husband, James Kirkwood, will come to his aid, it adds.

Lila Lee.

Dollar for dollar his creditors will be paid within a week or ten days, his counsel asserts. The counsel also denies charges against the missing restaurant man, declaring his obligations are "mostly civil."

Appel was indicted by a grand jury on charges of embezzlement, larceny and bailee and operation of a confidence game. It is claimed he is about to make his whereabouts known and surrender to the indictment.

3 DEAD, $60,000 LOST, IN 6 N. Y. HOLDUPS

New York, Nov. 15.—With the revolving of the cycle of the seasons another crime wave has come to New York. Since Monday six hold-ups have cost the lives of three men. The murdering robbers have escaped with $66,000.

Police of the greater city scoured the five boroughs today for men and women who could not give satisfactory explanations of themselves; but their keeness brought in only a handful of vagrants who were glad to be called in where it was warm.

DOCTOR WHIPPED AND LECTURED BY 6 MEN

Harrisburg, Ills., Nov. 15.—Dr. S. S. Smith, a physician of Raleigh, six miles north of here, was beaten by several men. Dr. Smith said the men pummelled him with their flats and lectured him on the treatment of his family.

MALDEN FIREMAN BARRED FROM LAW STUDY IN STATION

Fireman Michael T. Molloy of the Edgeworth station, Malden, who has been studying law for four years in the hopes of passing the bar examination next July, has been ordered by Fire Commissioner John H. Hanson to remove his typewriter and law books from his room in the station. Deputy Chief William P. Chadwick said that the order was issued because Molloy was doing a law business at the station. Molloy claims that it was inspired because of the commissioner's bitterness against him which, he says, started when he became the chief worker for the two-platoon system some time ago.

GROCERY OFFICIAL'S SKULL IS FRACTURED BY AUTO

William A. Robinson, fifty-six years old, of No. 32 Wildwood street, Winchester, an official of the Ginter company, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck and hurled several yards by an automobile as he left a street car at Church and Bacon streets, Winchester.

The automobile was operated by Daniel Harkin of No. 14 Henderson street, Arlington. The latter removed the injured man to the Winchester Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list.

ors found plugs in the boilers of engines, apparently ready for service, improperly fitted. Upon further examination all plugs in one boiler were ordered removed and placed in properly. Many engines being sent into service were condemned and sent back to the shops, according to the report.

He charged that the New Haven road spent $1,700,000 on repair work that would cost only $635,000 in their own shops.

"The New Haven road reminds me of the man who burns down his house to collect the insurance," declared Henderson. "The New Haven officials have destroyed their property and they are asking the public to pay for it.

"Naturally, the New Haven cannot compete with other roads when it is costing so much on the operating end."

He said he appeared before the Public Utilities Commission in the interests of the shippers and to present the truth before the public.

DISCOUNT ON TICKETS

In another column will be found a coupon which will entitle bearer to a special twenty-five per cent. discount on all orchestra tickets purchased at the Majestic Theatre ticket office for either the opening night or the second night performances.

Williams of Quincy, Miss Kathryn Sloane of East Boston, Miss Rutina Anderson of Malden, Miss Lillian F. Brown of South Boston, Miss Edna Mae Dowd of Chelsea, Miss Louise J. Lyons of Roxbury and Florence McGuire Herrick of Cambridge.

One of the largest parties in aid of the Fund will be given by Miss Down in Crescent Gardens Ball Room, Revere Beach, on Monday evening, December 3rd. An attractive entertainment, which will include some of the best known exhibition ball room dances of New England, is being arranged, and there will be dancing to the regular Crescent Gardens Ball Room orchestra of fifteen musicians, directed by Karl Rohde.

HER FOURTH ENTERTAINMENT.

Mrs. Williams of Quincy will conduct her fourth annual entertainment and dance in aid of the Fund in Alpha Hall, Quincy, on Monday evening, December 17. Mrs. Williams, who is a member of Professional Women's Club, is planning many novel features. She has engaged Frankie Ward's orchestra for the occasion.

The pupils of the Lillian F. Brown School of Dancing will present their famous Christmas Toy Shop in Municipal Building, South Boston, Friday evening, December 14th for the American's fund. In addition to the entertainment program, general dancing will be indulged in. Ray Benoit's and Louis Poole's orchestras will furnish music.

The Rutina Studio of Dancing, Malden, will give a children's entertainment on Saturday, December 15th, from 10 to 12 a. m. in Sargent Building, Malden, in aid of the fund.

Desiring to crowd the hall to capacity, Miss Anderson has placed the low price of twenty-five cents upon the tickets.

WOMAN BOOTLEGGER IN W. C. T. U. TOWN

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 15.—Evanston, the home of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has a woman bootlegger. This fact came out in Evanston Police Court today when Miss Louise Rakowski, twenty-three, was arraigned before Magistrate Boyer.

For weeks the police have been searching for the source of moonshine supply. A tip was received that a woman was responsible. Policewoman Georgine Kewel raided the Rakowski home. Three stills, a quantity of moonshine and Miss Rakowski were taken. She was fined $200.

the committee's general counsel, was made immediately upon resumption of the hearing and before the cross-examination of the former director of the Veterans' Bureau was resumed.

"Yesterday, in the cross-examination of Colonel Forbes," O'Ryan said, "he made charges that the testimony thus far introduced which impeaches his character is not only false, but the result of subordination of perjury and the coercion of witnesses.

FORBES "IRRESPONSIBLE."

"Colonel Forbes I regard as irresponsible. I expect, however, to prove much more than irresponsibility in his conduct of office and in his lack of care of the disabled.

"Colonel Easby-Smith (counsel for Forbes) is an officer of the court and is responsible, and I ask him here and now if he has any proof of any improper action toward any witness or improper action of any other character upon my part or upon the part of Major Arnold, my assistant counsel?"

Mr. Easby-Smith said he would submit a list of witnesses to the committee in connection with Forbes' charges and a list of documents that, Forbes claims, were withheld.

"Are you a native American, or a naturalized citizen?" Forbes was asked by General O'Ryan at the outset of today's examination.

"I am a naturalized citizen."

O'Ryan wanted to know if the former bureau director had had an altercation with Mortimer on Labor Day, 1922.

"I had some words with him, but do not remember when it was."

QUARREL OVER WOMAN.

"Was it about Mrs. Mortimer?"

"I don't remember. It might have been partially about her."

Forbes conceded that Mortimer had found the former director and Mrs. Mortimer in an apartment at the Wardman Park Inn here, but declared the door was wide open.

The former director denied that it was a few days later that he became indignant because of Mortimer's connection with the Sutherland Construction Company.

Forbes said he had given a position as mechanical engineer in the bureau to George B. Tullido, Jr., a brother of Mrs. Mortimer. He was twenty-two years old and his salary, Forbes said, was $3,000 a year.

"Do you swear that that appointment was not made to please Mrs. Mortimer?" asked O'Ryan.

"I swear," said Forbes.

MONEY IN CLERK'S NAME.

O'Ryan wanted to know if Forbes knew that E. Tripp of the supply divison of the bureau had put the proceeds from the Perryville, Md., sale of supplies in the bank in Tripp's name.

"I heard about it when I returned from New York," Forbes said. "It was an unusual occurrence, of course."

fine. I couldn't resist him," she sobbed. "When he urged me to run away with him, I was glad to do so, and we left Portland in a car stolen from L. V. Ford. We went through Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. At Salem our money gave out and we decided to abandon the car, but before that Frank wired to Mr. Ford where his car was.

"Then we came to Cleveland on our few remaining dollars, and Frank said we'd have to go to work. We started in soliciting subscriptions for a magazine, but didn't do very well, so we thought we'd try something else.

The scene of the first burglary, the girl said, was decided upon while they were canvassing for subscriptions and admittance was obtained by means of a duplicate key. A camera and $65 was taken.

The couple were arrested by a squad of police at another Cleveland Heights home. The man refused to talk, except to deny every statement.

In the room which they rented in Cleveland was found, according to the police, a large number of keys, several pairs of women's gloves, silk handkerchiefs and lingerie.

"Just to think," she said, "when my parents did our minister adopted me and paid my tuition and board so I could fit myself as a teacher. I'd have been ready to teach by June and now I'm locked up for life, but I love him so much I'd do anything he asked."

SON OF JEWISH TAILOR HARVARD GRIDIRON STAR

IZZY ZARAKOV SHINES ON CRIMSON FRESHIES

By WALTER B. FORD

Izzy Zarakov is a Jew.

His father runs a tailor shop in Somerville.

His parents came to this country from Odessa twenty-two years ago when Israel's big brother was a baby.

Izzy is also the star halfback of the Harvard Freshman football team. Harvard grads and undergrads can hardly wait for the year to pass when Izzy can be the star of the Crimson varsity.

IS VERSATILE.

Izzy is a bear at football. He is a star in baseball and hockey. He is an accomplished musician and can step into amateur light opera with credit.

But above all he has played football from the cradle and seems destined to be a Harvard comet where others are stars.

Suppose Izzy had picked Yale.

All Harvard shudders.

For Izzy is a dizzy guy when it comes to zig-zagging down the field. He would be on the varsity now, but for the rule that first year men may not be there. He has figured in every win of the Freshmen team this season. His run loops around the interference of the varsity second team. When he starts every opponent seems in the wrong place and Izzy in the right one.

DAD PRESSES PANTS.

Izzy is a Jew and his aging father presses pants.

But Izzy hits a wicked heel as he flashes toward the goal posts. He also swings a mean boot against the pigskin.

And sons of millionaire dads can't help but applaud at what he is doing and yell do for Harvard.

They cannot seem to do it like he does, but he is advertising the college which will lend its prestige to their future after they have been graduated from a four-year hard grind.

And anyway Harvard didn't hire Jews.

This chap is a Jew, but he is a bear for football, say these scions of homes where dads do not press pants nor mothers work behind the counter.

The real story of Izzy's success is not alone on the football gridiron, though he more than does his part out there.

IDOLIZED AT HOME.

It is back at the humble home at No. 1 Henderson place, North Cambridge, and in the tailor shop and dry goods store at No. 505 Medford street, Somerville, where a father and mother slave that Izzy may bring honor to the name of Zarakov.

There is a daily story of humble sacrifice and parental heroism that is all unknown by the throngs that have cheered and will cheer Izzy as he goes to the top as a Harvard football star.

"We have worked all our lives for the honor our sons might bring us," their mother, Sarah Zarakov, told an American reporter. "It is worth it all. What is money compared to it? We are satisfied.

And the small-statured father, Simon, ever smiling as he wields his pressing iron, shears or needle and thread, agrees.

"Though Izzy's brother got an awful start aside from getting here first, by weighing sixteen pounds when he was born and being something of an athlete and musician ever since Izzy, christened Israel and later called Isadore, is the real hero of the family in the parents' eyes.

STARTED IN CRADLE.

To the reporter it seemed that the real heroes are the hero worshipers back in the humble home and shop.

Let the mother tell how Izzy got this start.

"Weighing in at nine and one-half pounds the day he came to live with his parents, he developed rapidly. At less than a year he exhibited symptoms of pigskin valor, according to the happy little mother.

He started in by edging his crib pillow down over his waving chubby legs and kicking it out onto the floor.

At the age of four or five he was kicking around at everything loose and when he was eight, they decided what was the matter with him and bought him a football. He had even lined up bundles of rags to kick about the yard.

Then someone stole Izzy's football.

"But he so loved to kick the ball around, I bought him another," said the mother. "He should have one, he wanted it so."

MUSICIAN AS WELL

At ten he was playing football in the parks. At thirteen he was graduated from Ellis School in North Cambridge and went to Cambridge Latin, where by the next year he was captain of the team. Hockey and baseball also claimed his attention, with honors resulting.

Exeter was next. This was last year and one of the mutilated and bleeding things at the end of the academy football season was Andover—due to an Izzy touchdown of course.

Izzy is a musician as well as an athlete but tailoring and storekeeping is all his father knows. He turned this of Izzy's grandfather, back in Odessa where Israel Zarakov was a tailor and store keeper. Simon, Izzy's father, has been in business in Boston and Cambridge for more than 20 years.

Izzy was born in Boston, at No. 27 Wall street, when his dad ran a shop in Stanford street.

Just now Izzy is laid up temporarily with a sprained or twisted ankle. But the parents who are helping him glorify Harvard are hard at work from early to late in the little Somerville shop, which they took over last May.

PARENTS SACRIFICE.

Some days they work at home and in the store for twenty-hour stretches but they forget all that when Izzy zigzags and twists for 70 or 80 yards or boots the ball for a long one.

The Harvard grads and undergrads cheer Izzy, but they don't know of the steaming pants and busy needle in the little shop. They don't know of the mother's aching feet in the store all day, catching up on housework at night.

"He is going to be next year's Harvard star," say the grads and undergrads.

"He is our Izzy," say the parents, with the light of love and pride lending into a glorious thing in their ageing eyes.

Izzy Ix Ax Izzy Dux

Started football career by kicking pillow out of crib at 6 months.

Kicked bundles of rags about at 4.

Had first football at 8.

Park and sand-lot player at 11.

Graduated from public school and its football at 13.

Year later captain of Cambridge Latin football team.

One year hockey captain for same school.

Star in Exeter Academy last year, humbling Andover by touchdown.

Entered Harvard this season and has been chief factor in every freshman victory so far.

Made a 60-yard run through entire Andover team.

Smashed through again and again for gains against Exeter.

Of the thousands of Harvard men who go into raptures as the young Jew achieves glory for their alma mater by his phenomenal playing, few are aware that it is the patient sacrifice of his parents who came here from Russia twenty-two years ago, that has made his scholastic career possible and that they glory in the opportunity of toil that their son may do both himself and them honor.

RUM SOLD ON COLLEGE CAMPUS

Providence, R. I., Nov. 15.—A Brown University junior has been suspended after he confessed to extensive bootlegging activities on the campus, Dean Otis E. Randall of the university announced.

The student is Thomas Bernard Farrell of Central Falls.

The suspension is the result of an investigation begun by Dean Randall recently when stories of liquor parties in which students participated reached his ears.

The student whose name the university head refuses to reveal, was hailed before the officials and suspended after he confessed selling liquor to students on the campus.

The suspended student, it was announced, is not a resident of Rhode Island. He is reported to have made a small fortune in liquor traffic among students. It is believed his suspension will be followed by his expulsion. It is hinted he played an important part in the social and fraternal life of the university.

The authorities refused to state whether the erring student's bootlegging activities were confined to the men of the university or whether they were carried into Pembroke College, the women's department of the university.

SEA COOK ROUTS 6 MEN WITH KNIFE, GETS 6 MONTHS

The Sea Gull hove into port, East Boston, with her sails set.

The cook went ashore.

Today he is still ashore.

Six months from today he'll still be ashore.

For Fred Koenka, who prepares the chow on the Sea Gull, got full of moonshine in East Boston, then got lonesome for the feel of a butcher knife. He lifted one in a store at Sumner and Border street, then wielded it in such a manner six store keepers immediately shut up shop and called it a day.

They departed the neighborhood with coat tails flying as the cook staggered into a house at No. 8 Cross street. Five families departed at the sight of Fred's weapon. Then came Patrolmen Griffin and Lucy.

They outmanouvered the cook when his sea legs gave out, disarmed him and hustled him to jail.

In East Boston Court he got six months "on the island."

There, when Fred gazes out of an iron grilled window, he will see many sea gulls.

BATHTUB ACCIDENTS BEAT AIR MISHAPS ALL HOLLOW

Hartford, Ct., Nov 15 (By Universal Service)—Bath tubs are much more dangerous than airplanes. In fact, the ratio of potential accidents one as against the other is about 61 to 1 if the claims of the Aetna Insurance Company may be considered a fair reflection of life's innumerable hazards.

A report on accident claims reveals that only two claims, amounting to less than $50, were filed as a result of airplane accidents. But thirty-nine policyholders came to grief while stepping into the tub and were paid a total of $5,750

The report of 10 000 claims showed twenty-one persons were injured as a result of getting out of bed the wrong way, 121 received injuries from slivers sticking up from the floor, 605 made disastrous landings when rugs slipped from beneath their feet and 369 got hurt from going down stairs too rapidly.

CHIEF PAINTS ALARMING PICTURE OF POISONED RUM

Washington, Nov. 15.—An alarming picture of the dangers lurking in poisonous liquor now being sold throughout the country is painted by Dr. J. M. Doran, head of the industrial alcohol and chemical division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Samples of liquor seized in the vicinity of Washington, Dr. Doran says, analyzed in the treasury laboratories, show a serious deterioration in quality, even for illicit spirits, less than 1 per cent. proving genuine. A year ago it was estimated 2 per cent of the supply was good.

BOMB PLOT VICTIMS BURIED; CRIPPLE SOUGHT IN MYSTERY

Corpus Christi, Tex., Nov. 15.—The double funeral of J. A. Barnes, prominent real estate dealer, and his twelve-year-old son Jesse, killed when a bomb sent to Mr. Barnes in a box labelled "Magazines," wrecked his home, was held today.

Meanwhile officials at San Antonio, from where the box was sent by express, continued search for a crippled man who paid Juan Morales, fourteen-year-old newsboy, 25 cents to ship the box.

The box, addressed to Mr. Barnes and marked "personal," was delivered yesterday. The bomb exploded when he attempted to open it. He was killed instantly. The son died later.

SEX EQUALITY FOR DRUNKS IS ASKED BY WOMAN

"They picked on us. Why didn't they pinch the men."

Mrs. Alice McNeil of No. 60 Astor street, Back Bay, talking.

She's addressing Judge Palmer in Roxbury Court.

With three other women she was taken from her apartment drunk today. Cops said they found three of the women drunk, the fourth a 7-year-old girl puffing on a cigarette. Seven men were in the flat, they said.

The cigarette smoker was taken to her home and her parents told to use a hairbrush on her.

Mrs. McNeil with Jesse and Cora Smith were found guilty and held in $200 each.

"The men weren't arrested," said Sergeant Morrissey, "because they were sober."

DRUGSTORE 'CLOSED BY DEATH' WHEN IT WAS MADE 'DRY'

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Chicago police took away the alcohol permit from Dr. Mark P. Abrams, proprietor of the Harrison drug store a week ago.

Yesterday they took away his cigarette license.

Today they took away his drug license.

So tonight Dr. Abrams hung up a sign:

"Closed on account of death."

Lausanne, Switzerland—During arguments today at the trial of Maurice Conradi for the assassination of the Soviet envoy Vorovsky, the judge ordered M. Weltl, one of the defence lawyers out of court because of "outrageous utterances" in favor of the Bolsheviki. Weltl refused to depart and two gendarmes escorted him out.

How much money the present administration at City Hall has expended for conventions and the entertainment of other guests of the city, is under investigation, by the Finance Commission, it was learned today.

In connection with the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, held here last June, it was learned that the sum of $5 224 05 was allotted to them, the largest of the year.

Next in favor was the Order of the Alhambra, the social organization of the Knights of Columbus, who received $5,000. The convention was held in August

MASONS COST $4,187.55.

The cost to the city for the Masonic convention held in June was $4,187 55. This was less than the Alhambras for the reason that a shore dinner at $2 50 a plate was given to the K. of C. at Nantasket and an excursion to Plymouth costing $1,000 thrown in.

The Massachusetts State Letter Carriers' Association convention cost the city $705.20. The International Longshoremen's Association received $490; American Prison Association $50; Sons of the Revolution $25, and the Photo-Engravers $22 50.

$20,000 APPROPRIATED.

The entire appropriation for this feature of city affairs is $20,000. So far, to date, the city has expended $16,304.30. A bill of $185 was paid by the city for entertainment of the Mayor's Club during the fight to bring about concerted action on behalf of the cities and towns in the National Bank Tax cases.

However, what the investigation will tend to show is a mystery. Mayor Curley has repeatedly stated that he believes that the bringing of conventions to the Hub and the money spent to entertain them is refunded to the city in a great many ways, and that the general public is also benefited.

PEEKING COPPERS ARREST FOUR

Peeking by coppers from the top of a 40-foot ladder at 5 a. m. caused the arrest of two couples of charges of misconduct, in a third-floor apartment on Brainard road, Brighton Vice Officers Phillips and Hamlet blushed; they went in and did their duty.

Those were arrested: Edwin McShane, widower, in the garage business, who had occupied the apartment about a month; Melvina Cook, Summer street, Lynn; Frank Roderick of North Shore road, Revere, and Gladys La Valle of Sycamore street, Revere

ROSENWALD TO SEE HIS 2,000TH SCHOOL

Chicago, Nov. 15.—An announcement from Nashville, Tenn., that Julius Rosenwald, wealthy small city dor house official, would attend the dedication of the South's two-thousandth Rosenwald school, has drawn attention to an extensive program for the betterment of negro education.

The scope of the plan for improvement of negro schools has extended now to fourteen States of the South. An offer was made by which Mr. Rosenwald would contribute to the erection of a schoolhouse in every community which raised either from negroes, friendly whites or from public funds an equal amount or more than Mr. Rosenwald gave.

'SCARAMOUCHE' THRILLS AT PARK THEATRE

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

THERE have been other pictures, artistically filmed and brilliantly cast, showing spots and splashes of the great French Revolution, but it has remained for "Scaramouche," now at the Park Theatre, to present the very soul of that great human upheaval with a thrilling, dramatic intensity never before approached in photoplay production.

"Scaramouche," a novel by Rafael Sabatini, was one of the best of our sellers, and now in cinema form it must take rank with the most pretentious, artistically effective and enarossing stories the screen has ever embraced to its own profit.

INSPIRING STORY.

Literature of the last century has had nothing more inspiring as subject matter than the circumstances surrounding and the events leading up to the downfall of the French monarchy under Louis XVI., and under the skilful direction of Rex Ingram, whose almost uncanny gifts make photoplays appear even more real than life itself, "Scaramouche" flashes into the public eye as an important chapter in history. It is a chapter in which, if your imaginative reaction is rushing true to form, you cannot resist being carried into the story—as one of the supernumaries, if not one of the principals.

In this Metro production Mr. Ingram has not only kept pace with his own fine achievement in "The Four Horsemen," but has really outdistanced his artistic record that made that picture so notable. "Scaramouche" shows history in creation and adds a thrilling touch with its intense drama, revealing a romantic flavor that tugs at your heart with no gentle pull.

STRONG CAST

With a cast that rivals any gathered into a single film it would, indeed, be strange if the artistic ads of the story were not impressively presented. Ramon Novarro, one of the younger of the present crop of leading men of the screen, added new laurels to his already ample wreath and revealed a splendidly sympathetic conception of the novelist's young hero, Andre Louis Moreau, around whom so many stirring events centered.

Alice Terry, beautiful as well as talented, carried you back to the eighteenth century of full skirts and powdered hair with unerring precision, and Lewis Stone, the mature hero of many a soul up-setting drama, gave the Marquis de La Tour a distinction that was probably more impelling than anything ever discovered in Louis' lamented court.

Stewart Gordon, George Siegmann and Lloyd Ingraham brought an acting strength into the picture that was conspicuous for its faultless artistry.

"Scaramouche" will stand among film productions as an example of the better and brighter things for which anxious critics have been clamoring. Its photography is outstanding in its perfection, and its human types are a tribute to the selective genius of Rex Ingram. If you prefer your picture drama with something real instead of tawdry and imperfect; if you like drama that thrills, you will enjoy "Scaramouche."

MOVIE STARS OFF TO MAKE SAHARA FILM

Tokio, Nov. 15.—The Cabinet's extravagances aren't being new," was the united opinion of a bevy of movie stars, who sailed for Europe, about cinema ware reductions. Clara Windsor, Rosemary Theby, Montagu Love, Bert Lytell and Paul Panzer, embarked for the Sahara to film "A Son of the Desert."

Montagu Love.

They intend to see something of Europe, too, and despite the new mode for slashing film stars' salaries from $2,000 a week to a niggardly $750, they expect to make both end meet, what with the exchange and expense accounts and all that.

ACTION IN LAWYERS' CASE UP TO COURT

Petitions filed by the Boston Bar Association in Suffolk Superior Court against Attorneys Amasa C. Gould, with offices at No. 24 Milk street and Oliver A. Wyman, No. 294 Washington street, may not necessarily make disbarment the action asked for.

An official of the Bar Association states that, though a regular hearing was held by the association, corresponding to a grand jury proceeding in regular court actions, the disposition of the cases is left to the discretion of the court as to whether disbarment, suspension or other punishment should be inflicted if the two were found guilty of legal misconduct. Each relates to single complaints and neither is of a sensational nature, this official explains.

Attorney Gould, who specializes in corporation law told an A reporter he did not know petitions had been filed as he had received no notification.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

A Charming Serial of Love and Adventure in the Picturesque Days of the Beginnings of the Astor and Vanderbilt Fortunes

THE STORY SO FAR

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. It has a successful trial trip and Pat saves the boat from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Bully Boy Brewster in a prize fight. Pat sneaks into the firehouse, but the constable orders her out. The fight is stopped by a fire alarm, rung in by Pat. The mob gets after her.

PUSHING Irving away, he sprang down and rushed to the door, too swift for the others, who were on his heels, to stop him. He flung the door open and so sudden was his appearance that the Terror, who stood there, his great whip raised, started back.

"You—you—cheat" cried the Terror. "Stopped the fight—kept me from winning——"

"Hang him! Tie him up and whip him. Make him pay all the bets we'd have won."

A hundred voices cried for vengeance. The Terror and another man took hold of Larry, who stood, making no resistence, flinching not at all. Then suddenly a figure shot through the door. It was Pat, flinging herself upon the Terror, kicking, scratching. So startled was he by the sudden attack that he gave ground, and for a moment, too, sheer amazement held the mob silent.

"It was I rang the bell!" she screamed. "Mr. Delavan knew nothing of it. It's me you want —not him."

"Pat—go back!" cried Larry.

But she ignored him. Her fighting blood was up.

"Yes—me—you cowards!" she cried. "Oh, you're brave enough when you're a hundred to one! I did it—to save him from losing to cowards like you! There's the truth—take it and be damned to you!"

She stood there facing them. Larry reached a hand to draw her back. But the Terror was swift to act for once. With a wild yell he snatched Patricia from Larry's grasp, swung her up into his arms and rushed off, back through the garden with the mob yelling and shrieking as, guessing his design, it followed him.

Patricia (Marion Davies) and Larry Delavan

Sheer instinct kept Pat fighting as the Terror carried her off. Never in all her life had she known such a fear as this. The man's great arms crushed her; the brute in him, never far below the surface of his precarious veneer of civilization, was roused as it had not been even during the fight with Brewster.

Everything conspired to lash the Terror to a frenzy; to animate him; to fill him with a cruel and malignant purpose. The mob, howling and roaring about him as he ran; the slender, kicking figure that he held, fists pounding on him, thin voice screaming at him, the torches that cast a ruddy glare over everything; the knowledge that he had in his power, to do with as he pleased, a member of a class that he despised, hated and feared.

For the Terror this was a night of nights. He loved adulation and the shouts of a mob. And he was in a position of supreme authority now; never, in his life before had his passion for glorifying himself had such rich food to feed upon.

Some in the mob must have known that there could not, in the very nature of things be much time for what was to be done. They had seen Larry and his friends rush out after them; might have guessed the significance of the way they checked the others as they would have followed might have known, even without hearing his words, what he was saying.

Alone in Crisis

For Larry alone in this crisis had kept his head. When Brevoort and Hallock would have rushed blindly on to destruction in an effort immediately to rescue Pat, and even Irving carried away by his pity, would have followed blindly, regardless of the impossibility of accomplishing anything against such odds, Larry assumed the leadership.

"What are you stopping us for?" Brevoort cried angrily. "They'll kill that boy—there's murder in that brute——"

"Don't argue now; get help—get help!" cried Larry. "There must be some at Delmonico's—or at all the hotels. Get as many as you can, quickly. Every one not to be had is necessary. Get the police—the militia—everybody. Tell them what is happening—that we must have help—unless we must! Hurry—hurry—"

"He's right!" shouted Irving. "We're no good to her—we must get the lad away from them—"

And meanwhile the Terror rushed on, surrounded and followed by the [illegible] of the adjacent [illegible] platforms, [illegible] shrill [illegible] ghastly [illegible] glass [illegible] it rushed up the [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] followers [illegible] [illegible] But [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

HARVARD NOT WORRIED OVER OUTCOME OF YALE BATTLE

ELI NOT GIVEN A LOOK IN

By NICK FLATLEY

Harvard isn't worried over the coming conflict with Yale.

The great grid machine from New Haven holds no terrors for the Crimson giants—in fact, Fisher's football followers are busier talking up the Brown battle than they are the gridiron classic of next week.

Coach Fisher is delighted with his boys and the way they have performed, especially in the Princeton game.

"It was the first test of a lot of them under pressure," he remarked, "and every one came through splendidly. The whole team played better football than it had all season.

"The boys still have a lot to learn, but they seem to have the spirit now that makes coaching easy. They were sluggish at the start of the year, but that's been removed finally."

Perhaps the most remarkable football phenomenon of the days is the utter lack of respect all Harvard men who have been connected with the game at all, have for Yale. One would naturally think, this season, that the Crimson would concede the Blue a real chance.

Nothing of the sort, though. Coaches and players and everybody else admit that Yale has a good team, a strong one, but it doesn't seem to make the slightest difference in Harvard opinion.

Charley Eastman

"Yale," explains one of the shrewd coaches, "just can't lick Harvard. They carry that feeling into the game with them, even though they don't believe it, and it helps us invariably."

Yale men, to be sure, will protest this, but the history of the past few years would indicate that it's true. The big Blue has been a favorite, generally top-heavy, for the most recent Falls, but Harvard always wins.

The coach who made the above statement has scouted the Yale team in three games.

"They have a big and powerful line," he goes on, "and a crowd of remarkably fast backs. They look like one of the great teams of the ages at times. But then again, they slow up for no reason at all, and are gained against.

IF POWER EASES HARVARD MAN WILL TAKE ADVANTAGE

"The team has tremendous power, there's no doubt of it, but if that power ever eases, you are likely to find some Harvard man taking advantage."

All the Harvard cripples have been released from the hospital, and the whole squad will be ready for Yale, unless some accidents are encountered against Brown.

HAMMOND WILL BE USED AGAINST YALE.

Hammond is back in the game regularly now, and will be used against the Bruins. It is figured that a hard battle will get him in the proper physical trim for the homeward trail.

Corduroy and Lockwood, who are in training at the latter's home in Milton, candidates now, will work with Dick carrying the ball. The success of these two youths will make only subs early in the contest, has done a lot to spur along the other members of the smashing troupe.

Coburn and Cheek, who were real stars against the Tigers, will be kept out of harm's way until the Yale contingent arrives. So will Joe McGlone, who gave great satisfaction in his first big game.

Joseph didn't run with the ball as many had looked for him to do but in calling the plays, and directing his game, he was a complete success while he was in there. And this, in the eyes of coaches at Harvard, is much more important than thrilling individual parades down the field.

Princeton's Safety International, Says Roper

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15.—The play in the Harvard-Princeton contest Saturday, by which Bradford Dinsmore, Tiger quarterback, grounded a ball behind his own goal line and gave Harvard a safety and 2 points, was done intentionally. It was a bit of strategy on the part of the Princeton pilot, Head Coach Roper said when questioned concerning the much discussed play.

Morris Legendre, explained the action in this way. "There were three minutes left to go and it was only by keeping possession of the ball, that Princeton could have a chance to score. If the ball was punted, Harvard would have been on the offensive near our 40-yard line, and could have plugged away at our line for the rest of the time.

The Crimson team doesn't care much what happens in the Brown contest, though nobody likes to be beaten.

"Cav" has more than two weeks to prepare for Holy Cross, with Vermont the obstacle to be hurdled immediately before the Purple invasion. The Worcester team has developed splendidly, after a poor exhibition against Harvard, and that particular game is sure to be one of the season's very best. From present indications, there will not be room enough in Braves Field to hold the gridiron populace.

DARTMOUTH TO BE IN SHAPE FOR COLBY

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 15.—Jesse Hawley returned from his trip to New Haven with T. J. Gilman, '05, after he had negotiated with the Yale authorities for a game either in 1924 or 1925 and took up the task to put the Green eleven in shape for the Colby encounter Saturday.

Dutch Diehl

Team A went through a half-hour of scrimmage. Bob Hall, at left half, ran around the defence men of Team C and scored twelve points made against the scrubs.

Coaches Moore and Cannell had drilled the third strong outfit on Colby plays, which were used for a short period against the varsity.

Diehl and Hatch suffer from leg injuries, but will be back in the lineup before Saturday.

FRED BROWN WINS IN HAVERHILL MARATHON

AMATEUR RING STARS IN ARENA BOUTS TONIGHT

This special bout will be only one of the numerous features of the pre-Olympic tri-city tournament conducted by the St. Joseph's T. A. S.

With four inter-city classes and three open classes it is expected that the fans will see more action in the ring since the nationals last April.

The appearance here of the Yale heavyweight has aroused the interest of the fans. Remembering the sensational work of Eddie Eagan, former Yale heavyweight in his last appearances here, local fans are anxious to get a peek at Tiplitz.

He has fought only seven fights during his career and six of these he has won by a knockout. In his opening bout, he was sent to the mat six times yet gamely staged a comeback and won the decision. Since then none has escaped from his K. O. wallop.

Kirby will be forced to show everything he has to win over Tiplitz. There are few amateur heavyweights in the game today who can stand up against Kirby, but Tiplitz comes here with a brilliant record behind him.

MOSEY KING HAS BROUGHT TIPLITZ TO THE FRONT

Tiplitz has been brought to the front by Mosey King, boxing instructor at Yale and a member of the Connecticut Boxing Commission. Tiplitz is 23 years old and weighs 174 pounds. He was born in Russia and came here when he was 4 years old. He is one of the most popular students at Yale and Eli is depending upon him to win the big inter-collegiate boxing tournaments.

The Yale boy is a six footer and one of the giants of the Yale boxing team.

While the appearance here of Tiplitz is proving a big card, a tumultuous welcome is sure to be extended Joe Minehan, Boston College student, when he walks out to defend his laurels in the 147-pound class. Minehan is the greatest simon pure developed in this city in a decade.

He has been cleaning up the local ranks, and when he faces the New York and New Haven boxers in the intercity classes tonight, the fans are sure to be given plenty of thrills.

The New York and New Haven boys are already in town and ready to take the measure of the Hub team. The intercity classes include the 112, 115, 126 and 147 pounds divisions, while the three open classes are the 135, 160 and heavyweight.

HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHTERS TO SHOW CLASS

A number of newcomers will appear in the heavyweight division tonight. With Kirby out of the open class, other heavies are eager to perform.

The Boston winners of tonight's classes will be selected to represent this city in the big tourney which will be held at the Madison Sq. Garden, New York, later this month.

GROTON WINS OVER ST. MARKS, 13 TO 0

Southboro, Nov. 15.—Groton School was victorious over St. Mark's School in the thirty-third annual contest staged in Southboro. The final score was 13 to 0.

In justice to St. Mark's it should be said they outplayed Groton on the field, Groton made only one first down on scrimmage gains, St. Mark's gained nine first downs.

Breaks in the game were responsible for Groton's tallies. All the scoring was in the second quarter. The attempt of Captain Caulkins for a field goal from the 45-yard line was blocked by Stone, the Groton center, who stopped the ball and ran 45 yards for a touchdown.

Later in the same period a forward pass from Crawford was intercepted by Barney, who ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

NEWPORT TORPEDO TEAM BEATS ARMY

The Army's forwards were not able to stop the running attack directed at its tackles by the Navy backfield.

The only Army score came in the last period after an 80-yard run by Masse, who received a forward pass on his own 20-yard line.

Tucker was the only man on the Army team that seemed able to stop the Navy's advance toward the Army's goal line. His work was the feature of the contest. Time after time the brilliant guard broke through to nail some blue jersey back for a loss.

ELI SCRIMMAGE IN ELECTRIC LIGHT

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 14.—Yale scrimmaged under electric lights in an effort to gain every minute's practice possible before Saturday's pow-wow with Princeton.

John LoveJoy

Coach Jones concentrates to develop coordination in his team, as the rivals of old Eli seem to have a faculty of pouncing upon her weakness and shake out a victory.

Maryland nearly did it last week, but Jones is determined there will be no regrets after this week-end.

Jones' determination is reflected in the betting. Heavy odds are offered on Yale, from ten to seven and ten to five.

The opinion is that the odds are top-heavy without Century Milstead in the lineup. Milstead did not appear in the practice. His place was taken by Butterworth and Miller. It is not altogether certain that he will be in the lineup.

Two other stars, Richeson and Neidlinger, were out. Both watched the scrimmage, as they suffer from a charlie horse.

The varsity had its last hard scrimmage previous to the Princeton game when it played against the scrubs for an hour in the bowl.

SAILOR STANLEY TRAILS RAMSEY

"Sailor" Jack Stanley having done his bit in Uncle Sam's navy is now seeking fame inside the roped arena. Stanley, when he hangs his hat in Quincy, has his starboard and port side guns trained on Hugh Ramsey the Weymouth battler.

Sailor Stanley

The latter, according to the sailor, continually ducks a meeting and Stanley, who was champ of the North Atlantic fleet, wants to put a stop to the Weymouth lad's boastful stories and is seekin gaction. Should Ramsey or any other 125-125-pound battler want to meet Stanley they can communicate with his manager, Johnny Best, or his trainer Bert Skillet, Quincy avenue, Quincy.

THREE V. SITY MEN AGAINST BROWN

Only three Harvard varsity men will start against Brown in the Stadium Saturday. They are Charley Eastman, tackle; Heinie Dunker, guard, and Jack Hammond, fullback.

The other eight first string men who include Jim Coombs, Buck Evans, Mal Greene, sub. Capt. Hubbard, Ken Hill, Joe McGlone, Coburn and Dolph Cheek, will be kept in reserve on the sidelines, swathed in huge blankets, or else watch Yale and Princeton battle.

The team that Fisher will roll out to meet the Bruins will have Robb and Lew Gordon at the wings. Gordon was a regular wingman last year and started against Yale. The meteoric rise of Jim Combe thrust him into the background and he slipped back into the scrubs. But he will have his chance against the Bruins Saturday and if he comes through he may get another crack at Yale.

Phil Spaulding

Hobson and Eastman will start at tackle. Eastman's burly frame will be much in need to steel the Harvard line when Brown gets her crushing line attacks under way, otherwise he would have a vacation with his team mates.

Eastman's presence in the line is expected to have a psychological influence on the other Crimson forwards and give the line a greater confidence than it would have if composed entirely of subs.

The guards will be Dunker and Grew. Both are veteran linesmen and rated above the opposing Brown forwards. Dunker has been shifted from tackle to guard, and he will be used Saturday in order that he may accustom himself to his new position. He will come up against some tough opposition when he plays opposite the Yale line, and the more practice he gets the better chance he stands.

Percy Jenkins

Standish Bradford will start at center, as both Kernan and Greenough are in such condition that Coach Fisher would not dare risk any injuries to them.

The backfield will start with Spaulding at quarter, Howe and Lockwood, halfbacks, and Hammond, fullback. Akeras quarterback Cordingley, Rogers and Maher, backs, will get action.

REED SAYS HE WILL STOP WILSON INSIDE OF THREE ROUNDS

BITTER GO EXPECTED AT ARENA

By JACK CONWAY

"I shall win inside of three rounds!"

This was the confident statement made to this writer by Pal Reed, sturdy Natick middleweight, who tackles Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion, in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Boston Arena tomorrow night.

"I have trained harder for this bout than for any contest of my career," continued Reed. "I want to defeat Wilson and I am sure to accomplish this task as quickly as possible.

"I have an old score to settle with Wilson. Three years ago last April, when I was only a youngster in the fistic art, I battled Wilson at Mechanics Building. Those were the days before the Boxing Commission and decisions were very poor. For twelve rounds I chased Wilson around the ring only to see the decision given to my opponent.

WILSON, AS CHAMPION, DODGED REED BOUT.

There was no logic in my crying "robbery" as such tactics seldom get a fighter anything. I was champion then put in the ring with Mike O'Dowd and he won the middleweight title. As champion, Wilson refused to meet me. All because he realized I could defeat him.

"I won't have to worry about what the decision will be tomorrow night as I shall knock Wilson out. The tussle will be all over inside of three rounds.

"I proved I am socking harder than ever when I dropped Tommy Loughran to the canvas three times in our match at Newark. I have also scored recent wins over Pat McCarthy and Joe Eagan.

"Even though Wilson is an improved fighter, I shall win. Perhaps he hasn't a glass jaw. But even if his jaw is made of iron I shall stop him."

Reed has completed training and is in the best possible condition.

Frank Marlow, Wilson's manager has wired this writer that he has reservations for the former champion and himself on the 1 o'clock train out of New York this afternoon.

JACK TURNER IN TUSSLE WITH STASIAK

Stanley Stasiak, mighty Polish wrestler, will finally meet a man as big as himself when he clashes with Jack Turner, the Western giant, in a finish bout.

Turner is six feet three inches tall, while he weighs about as much as Stasiak. This assures the fans of a bitter struggle.

Jack Turner

Milo Steinborn, the German Sampson, will also be on the card to clash with the remarkable Finn, who is now opposed by Steve Bonecki, a huge longhoreman, in a one fall match.

Jack Albright, the man with a thousand holds, will clash with Swanson, the big Dane, in another bout which will also be to a finish.

Miss Virginia Mercerau, the champion lady wrestler of the West, will take on Miss Hazel Kimpard of Somerville. The winner of this will demand recognition from Miss Cora Livingston, world's champion.

Jack Conway, Boston American's expert says:

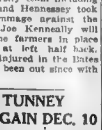
"I am picking Stasiak to win over Turner, though I figure the Mighty Pole will have to show more ability than ever to conquer Strangler Lewis' protege. I favor Steinborn over Bonecki and Albright over Swanson.

"As for the match between the lady wrestlers, I'll let friend Gill do the doping there. Any man who thinks he can tell how a woman will perform is a candidate for the nut factory."

TUFTS ROOTERS WILL GO TO AMHERST

Coaches Eddie Casey and Walter Cleary, Manager Dave Sulsine and 25 members of the Tufts football squad will leave the South Station tomorrow afternoon for Amherst.

About 1,000 followers of the Brown and Blue outfit will accompany the team. It is the second game away from home for the Medford college.



Jack Wilson

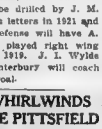
If Van French is able to hold his own in a kicking duel with Sullivan, the Aggies kicker, Tufts should win.

It is the last game of the Jumbo schedule. Should Tufts win it will close Eddie Casey's most successful season at the Medford college with a record of seven victories and only two defeats.

The entire varsity team including Captain Tyler and Hennessey took part in a scrimmage against the second team. Joe Kennedy will start against the farmers in place of Joe Hughes at left half back. Kennedy was injured in the Bates contest and has been out since with a bad knee

HARVARD CALLS OUT HOCKEY PLAYERS

Harvard hockey practice begins on November 26 when Coach Winsor will issue the call for candidates. Football players will be granted a short vacation after the last game, but the rest of the squad will have their first workout on the Monday after the Bates game.



Aspirants for the goal tend position will get in an early start, for candidates for that position will begin extensive practice early in the week. Competition will be keen for the position as neither first string goal guards of last season's team is in college.

Coach Winsor will have a staff of ex-stars to assist him. The forward line will be drilled by J. M. Martin, who won letters in 1921 and 1922, and the defense will have A. H. Bright who played right wing for Harvard in 1919. J. L. Wylde and G. W. Canterbury will coach candidates for goal.

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS OPPOSE PITTSFIELD

At Columbus Hall, East Boston next Tuesday night the Boston Whirlwinds will clash with the Pittsfield Pros

Pittsfield will bring their regular lineup to East Boston.

DAVE BANCROFT MAKES DEBUT AS MANAGER

By NICK FLATLEY.

Davey Bancroft, new manager of the Braves, hasn't made any grandiose talk about his ball club, which makes him the most promising young man who has entered into baseball here-abouts for a long, long time.

Davey arrived last night, was officially introduced, doffed the hat and beg to say, and said it. Davey is new to the job and admits as much. It's a bit out of his line to be the guest at banquets and room with club owners and have a who'e lot to say about a ball club.

And he's smart enough to keep mum until the ... wears off. That's just part of his natural ... quality that won him a very lucrative job from a flock of candidates, all of whom had more apparent claims on managerial abil ... than himself.

Little Mister Bancroft knows base ... and admits it. He has been ... with two of the canniest ... in the business, Pat Moran and John McGraw. He boosts both to the skies. He acknowledges that he will use a lot of their stuff. But "on the other hand" he has a few ideas of his own. For fifteen years he has been shortstopping, and in that time has collected all possible angles on the pastime.

He has training trip notions and no nonsense about him that he intends to work. He isn't saying much about them, though. The new skipper has a square chin and one of those determined, thin lipped mouths He's what you might call a hard ... little boy.

HAS COMPLETE AUTHORITY OVER THE PLAYERS.

He has been given complete ... over the ... and ... and it's ... he ... use ... as soon as the ... vanishes. A first player always he brings a lot of pep into a spot that has perhaps lacked that essential since the finish days of pennant trains here.

Danny is what you might call a ... guy, a manager who will ... the player all the best of it ... one himself. We have always thought that this was the correct policy for modern baseball, in a day when the wild life has no more appeal to the average athlete than a stroller bath has to a fish.

THERE HAS BEEN TOO MUCH RULE AND REGULATION

There has been lately, too much rule and regulation in our national pastime. The chaps who make the base hits children, most of them, have been bored down by too much authority. Here and there a manager has used reason, and has been up in the race.

The Bancroft platform is reasonable. Somebody asked him about train ne rules. He said, to wit and as follows:

"The young players who don't know the game need rules. Sometimes you must rush them. But the old timers, who are wise to their salt know how to get in shape. Anybody, who doesn't have sense enough to get ready, hasn't the brains to be a big leaguer."

PLATFORM WILL WORK WITH A FEW NEW PLAYERS.

That's a good platform, one that will work out perfectly if the club will buy the new manager the players he wants. And the club will, if possible.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

A Who has been the ablest cabinet officer this country has known for many a day?

Only one answer is made by those who have followed events, namely, Andrew W. Mellon, the present Secretary of the Treasury.

A republic is supposed to be anxious to select as its president the man best fitted to handle the responsibilities. Yet, have you heard the suggestion made even once that a good man to nominate for the presidency would be Mr. Mellon? It seems to be taken for granted that, because Mr. Mellon was a banker and became very rich through the efforts of his father and himself, the voters would not consider him for a moment as a possible presidential candidate.

This old-fashioned assumption is still deep-rooted, for the New York Times Wednesday said editorially of Mr. Mellon: "We must be perfectly aware that the door of a political reward is bolted and barred for him."

* * *

Is it not just possible, however, that the theory that the public intensely distrusts men of large affairs no longer holds? Hasn't at least some progress been made in banishing home to the people at large that successful business men are as honest, as good citizens, as those of any other class?

* * *

This is not to be interpreted as a suggestion that Mr. Mellon be invited out as a Presidential candidate. But it is the intention to question whether the public's attitude toward the rich is as unfavorable as antagonistic today as the politicos-wiseacres would have us believe.

* * *

The response to Secretary Mellons' plan for lowering income taxes all along the line, for one thing, in the case of those who actually earn their income than for those who simply pull in their dividends and clip coupons, for doing away with the well-named "nuisance" taxes—his whole plan has evoked the strongest commendation from business men in all parts of the country.

These extracts from letters received by the American from various sections will indicate home to the reader how strong is the feeling which exists against the burdensome taxation now levied upon 99 out of every 100 income taxpayers—the handful whose income goes beyond the line by investing his wealth in tax-exempt securities.

Robert M. Clark, president, Aunt Jemima Mills Company, St. Joseph, Missouri: "I most heartily approve of this manner in which Secretary Mellon is conducting the Treasury Department. I believe in his honesty of purpose and his judgment. Referring specifically to the matter of untaxable securities, I feel that the Government should regard equally other-wise the tax would be unfair, unequal burden upon [illegible] of taxpayers in favor of [illegible]."

* * *

[illegible] P. Bar, Westchester [illegible] Trust Company, White [illegible]: "I would it now be [illegible] to [illegible] the operations [illegible] man, or a Bell [illegible] financial prophet [illegible] to [illegible] in the [illegible] securities [illegible] from 15% exemption to the seclusion of an armored safe deposit vault and reduce [illegible] as they possibly can the revenue of their vast capital still invested in productive enterprise, the income from which pays them a handsome dividend. The result is with the present law and is so glaring as to leave one in grave doubt as to the wisdom of [illegible] lawmakers who permit it to continue in the face of expert advice given by Mr. Mellon."

* * *

George S. Parker, president, Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.: "Everybody has a large income, but practically everybody does depend upon the man who has a large income or who controls large interests. The man who holds the large interests if he withdraws his money from same and puts it into tax-free security benefits himself, but the wage earner of the institution supported by the capitalist, when this support is withdrawn, finds his earning power very much reduced."

* * *

Wesley M. Oler, president, American Ice Co., New Jersey, after referring to "the encouragement of villages, towns, counties, municipalities and states to add unduly to their expenditures," because of the ease with which they can market tax exempt securities, says: "The result has been enormous growth in the debt of these communities that is a great menace to the country at large. The whole system is wrong. To my mind the basis for a fair system for raising revenue, so that the heaviest tax falls on the extravagant spender and is not a tax on thrift and economy, as are the present laws."

* * *

Charles A. Lindley, Lindley & Co., New York: "Many men capable of intelligent direction of capital have stopped constructive effort and put their money to bed in tax exempt securities. This is not their loss only, but a loss to the nation as it has given us unusually expensive municipal buildings and State Houses employing political grafters for a short while instead of factories and business houses employing honest workmen for an indefinite time.

RADIO SETS TO BE COMPARED AT SHOW

The first opportunity to watch a comparative test of various types of modern radio receivers will be given to visitors at the coming Boston radio show which opens Dec. 3.

The association of Broadcast Listeners will have sole charge of all loud speaker operation at the show, which is in line with the modern tendency in radio shows to confine the demonstration of loud-speaker broadcast reception in one organization.

At previous shows, however, only one type of receiver has been used for this work, as at the New York show recently, when the only loud speakers in operation were installed by Armstrong's super-heterodyne.

The Association of Broadcast Listeners, however, will demonstrate a variety of methods of reception, ranging from the use of the simplest and most inexpensive sets to the multi-tube neutrodynes and super-heterodynes.

This will serve as an excellent indication of the comparative value of the various new receiving circuits that have appeared lately.

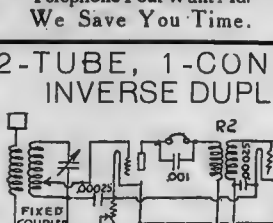
2-TUBE, 1-CONTROL INVERSE DUPLEX



A new single control inverse duplex perfected by David Grimes, and adapted for an outside antenna is shown above. The fixed coupler is made by making three or four turns of insulated wire around an ordinary eighty-turn secondary. The sliding contact of the variable condenser (25-plate) which tunes the entire secondary is tapped in much the same way as the loop of the Sleeper Monotrol is tapped. The positive of the A battery and the crystal circuit are grounded.

BOSTON ~~COMMON~~ AMERICAN

Press and Prohibition

Boston American Has Had No "Namby-Pamby" Attitude Towards Enforcement of the Law

The Boston press was denounced at a meeting of 400 members of the Evangelical Alliance at the Park Street Church a few days ago for a "namby-pamby" attitude on the subject of prohibition. We do not know whether this means that the Boston press is denounced for opposing prohibition or for supporting it.

In any event, we wonder whether the gentlemen who attended this conference took the trouble to commend the attitude of the Boston American. This newspaper has had no "namby-pamby" attitude toward the question of enforcing the Constitution and the laws of the nation. We have supported them both vigorously.

Moreover, for years before the Constitution forbade the sale of intoxicating liquors and for years before the Volstead act was passed, this newspaper sacrificed its profitable liquor advertising and denounced consistently and persistently the manufacture and sale of whiskey and other strong drinks. We believe that we are the only newspaper in Boston that did so. We are quite sure that we are the only paper in Boston to sacrifice liquor advertising, which, in those years, ran into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Since prohibition the editorial columns of this newspaper have never ceased to urge the vigorous enforcement of the law.

We wonder if the clergy, knowing this, took the trouble to commend us for an attitude which has cost us "a pretty penny" for many a year. Sometimes a little praise helps.

When our respectable middle class, which our clergy represent, have learned the necessity and have formed the habit of looking beneath respectable clothes for real worth, we shall be a far better country. Conventional respectability hides too many sins in this country for its own long run safety.

Honest Debt, War Plunder

There's a Difference

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

France asks the United States if the United States wishes France to reduce her claims on Germany, why doesn't the United States reduce her claims on Europe?

Answer: The United States has no "claim" on Europe. The only question involved there is the paying or repudiating of a debt of honor made when the European nations were struggling for life.

In Europe the question is, How much can be extracted from a nation that has been beaten, reduced to the condition of a dog without any teeth and kicked around for several years?

It should be thoroughly understood in Europe that the position of the United States in requesting payment of money lent is not at all like the position of France wondering how much she can get out of a beaten enemy.

Nobody questions the right of France to get what reparations she can in agreement with her allies. They BEAT Germany; it's for THEM to decide what they will do.

When Bismarck beat France he took Alsace, Lorraine and one billion dollars. France has taken back Alsace and Lorraine, has seized the Ruhr and asks for thirty-three billions. If she can get the thirty-three billions—or her share of that sum—which, of course, she can't, as there isn't that much gold in the world—well and good. But please don't compare money BORROWED from us with money that may or may not be TAKEN by force from Germany. A fixed debt of honor is different from a mere HOPE of successful penalizing after a war. France knows that, and proved her knowledge when she sent her troops to make Russia pay her debt to France. And the Russian debt was mere commercial lending by France, NOT a debt of honor.

To Debate R. R. Problems

Why Have the New England Colleges Made This Selection?

It is announced that the colleges of New England are going to discuss railroad problems in their joint debates. This is interesting. We wonder why the selection is made. We wonder whether or not the investigations of the students on the railroad problems is to be used, as it is quite notorious that a certain professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology uses the investigations of his students. He is employed regularly by public utilities and he makes his students do the research work for him in their theses and the facts which they gather he sells to the companies at a very high price.

The presence of Professor Holcombe of Harvard on the committee of arrangements makes us believe that there is nothing in the fear. When Arthur Holcombe is found in that sort of game the discouraged progressive can say "and thou, too."

We notice also that the colleges are going to adopt the Oxford system of debating. We wonder why? The American colleges have debated a great many years and very satisfactorily under the American system. We have never had any reason to take our hats off to English scholarship nor do we need to kow tow to the English debating team sent over here. When American colleges become self-respecting the Revolutionary War will have succeeded.

How Big Will the Klan Be?

It Has Much Power Already

The Ku Klux Klan, claiming 700,000 members in Ohio, announces that it will soon "dominate the State" and that it won the last election in practically every Ohio city except Steubenville.

This is a time of new organizations, new parties and new kinds of fighting. The Fascisti in Italy, with their imitators in Spain, the powerful Labor party in England, the powerful military party in France, the Separationists in South Germany, are all part of an after-the-war tendency to break away and work apart from established agencies and parties. The Ku Klux represent that tendency here. No one can even guess what will happen in the next national election, until it is known what the Ku Klux Klan decides to do. That's a statement that would have sounded strange three or four years ago. By July, 1924, the Klan may hold the balance of power.

HE SEIZED A BEAVER AND LOST AN EMPIRE

By Herbert Kaufman

JOHN JACOB ASTOR couldn't see beyond his nose. He had half a world at his fingertips and dropped it to grab a beaver.

With the profits of his Oregon trading posts he could have purchased a hundred thousand square miles of Northwest territory. Instead, he returned East, bought a few patches of Manhattan real estate, and founded a piddling fortune when he might have left his children multi-billionaires.

Opportunity is long on imaginationless men.

Newspapers raked Seward fore and aft in 1867 for gambling $7,200,000 on Alaska.

The wise men of Boston, Gotham and Philadelphia croaked ruin to the young republic which was horn-swaggled by "French cunning" into spending $27,267,621 on the acreage embraced by the Louisiana purchase.

A little over a century later, scraps of that very domain, easily covered by Dido's proverbial bull hide, are assessed at ten times that figure.

Where buffaloes browsed in the early seventies, 1923 beholds herds of smokestacks. The hunting grounds of Sioux and Klowa and Arapahoe are become battlefields of commerce, studded with skyscrapers and teeming with workers.

Not fifty years intervenes between scalp-taking and pace-making areas.

There are sample miracles that steam wrought. Electricity, more potent and patient, will double achievements in half the period.

The most valuable thing on the face of the earth is an accessible stock of raw-stuffs or a considerable piece of property.

A decade hence there shan't be an open spot on our continent which development won't at least double in value.

Civilization is cramped for room, pinched for structural materials, engine feed and housing space; short of power and provender.

The farthest flung imagination of the boldest optimist won't reach to the edge of imminent, realization any more than John Jacob Astor's vision could anticipate Riverside Drive, the cliff dwellings of Harlem or the harbor of Seattle.

Don't prospect mountain and desert for gold. The true Argonauts have always mined their minds.

Our lucky stars are shining brightest along the Oregon trail. Another tremendous phase in the making of America is at hand.

Doers and darers, plan accordingly!

'PASSION OF OUR LORD'

Cardinal O'Connell's Translation of the Bishop of Sabina's Magnificent Book a Rare Work of Art

By Jack Conway

HIS EMINENCE WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL'S translation from the Italian of "The Passion of Our Lord" by His Eminence Gaetano Cardinal De Lai, Bishop of Sabina, has given to English speaking people one of the world's most able reflections upon Christ's passion.

As is true of all of Cardinal O'Connell's works, this book, as it appears in its English dress, presents a most beautiful of English as well as the theology as accepted by the Catholic Church.

It is stated in this magnificent book that Judas, who betrayed Christ, was present at the Last Supper. He remained in attendance during the institution of the great Sacrament of the Eucharist and guiltily partook of it.

Indicates the Traitor

Christ told his disciples that one of them was not loyal to him. When John begged Christ to name the traitor, he replied:

"He it is to whom I shall reach bread dipped."

He dipped bread and handed it to Judas.

Cardinal O'Connell has translated the prayer Christ offered in his hour of sorrow as follows:

"My Father, if it is possible, let this chalice pass from Me. Nevertheless not my will but Thine be done. Father! Father! everything is possible with Thee. Take away this chalice from Me. Yet not as I will, but as Thou willest."

This prayer bears out the Catholic teaching that the son of God, taking upon himself the nature of man, became similar to us in all things with the exception of sin. Therefore, his human terror at the thought of the sacrifice he was to be called upon to make.

During Christ's agony, he sweat blood. It bathed his body and dropped to the ground where he knelt.

Christ's prophecy of his own betrayal came true when Judas turned his Master over to his enemies.

Christ was dragged in the dead of night before the Council of the Sanhedrim. This was in direct violation of the Mosaic law which prohibited trial by night or upon the vigil of a great Jewish solemnity like the Passover.

"The Passion of Our Lord" contends that the high priests, fast losing their prestige and terror of the growing power of Christ, were determined to put Christ to death regardless of law.

Unable to advance a single reason why Christ should be condemned, Caiphas, one of the high priests, asked:

"Art thou the Christ?"

Calmly and firmly came the answer:

"Thou hast said it. I am He. Indeed, I say to thee that one day thou shalt see the Son of Man at the right hand of the power of God coming in the clouds of heaven."

It was charged that Christ had blasphemed and so should die. The high priests, eager for an excuse to rid themselves of the Master, so decreed.

The Jewish law didn't permit of one being condemned to death by a single trial. So Christ was tried once more in the morning and the death sentence was again passed when he declared he was Christ.

The high priests could not sign an execution for the carrying out of the death penalty. They had to get the approval of Pilate, the Roman Emperor. After listening to the evidence, Pilate ruled that Christ had not been guilty of any wrong.

When one is the crowd shouted that Christ was a Galilean, Pilate, anxious to avoid losing the good will of the crowd and yet not wishing to condemn Christ, stated it was a case for Herod, Governor of Galilee, who was in Jerusalem.

Herod could find no reason for condemning Christ. When Christ failed to gratify his desire to see a miracle performed, Herod became angry and publicly branded Jesus as a fool.

Once more Christ was brought before Pilate. The latter's wife had during her sleep seen in a vision the figure of the Divine Redeemer. When the latter saw the blood-stained face of Christ, she pleaded with Pilate not to have anything to do with this plot hatched by the Sanhedrim.

Pilate tried to avoid the passing of the death penalty. He told the angry mob that Christ was innocent. The high priests answered that Christ had set himself up as a king and thus was a menace to the power of Rome.

Pilate Finally Approves

This argument had great weight with Pilate, as he feared the wrath of the Emperor Tiberius. On the other hand, Pilate did not wish to injure Christ. He also remembered the warning of his wife. Fear of losing favor at Rome overcame Pilate's desire for justice and he approved the decision of the people. And so Christ was crucified.

"The Passion of Our Lord" describes the darkness that took possession of the world as Christ died upon the cross, how the earth was shaken by a tremendous earthquake and the tombs of the dead opened, and those who had been dead for many years walked through the streets of Jerusalem.

This book has already been read by thousands. As it is one of the masterpieces of Catholic doctrine, and the story is told in the most gripping and choice language, it will be read through out the English speaking world.

Dad's Wayside Lunch.

Editor American:

Referring to your item of Monday, November 5, in which you spoke of "Dad's Wayside Lunch," State road, South Sudbury, as a road house, we strongly protest against the use of that term in connection with our business.

This place is run as an open-air restaurant and lunch room during the Summer, the enclosure being glassed in through the colder months—catering to the better class of people of moderate means, a place where they may take their families or friends without unpleasant contact with the rough element and spend a pleasant evening, dancing being permitted in the dining hall.

Bonus and Delays.

Editor Boston American:

Now that the public has again shown favoritism toward the soldiers' bonus, we who could use it most advantageously will stand back and watch activity along that line with renewed interest. Let it be hoped those who have it in their power to rush matters will not again be swayed by political highsrups.

After Long Illness

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if anyone could help me? I am down next to the street, and expect any time that my landlord will come and put us out. My husband and I have both had a long illness, and just now we have no work, no money and no food. We have two children and are living in furnished rooms, and our sickness left us absolutely without anything. A job for my husband would be a godsend. He has no trade, but is an honest and willing man. I do hope someone will hear our S. O. S.

MRS. L. M.

Live on $4 a Week

Editor Helping Hand:

I am alone with two little girls, ten and nine. My husband was killed three years ago while out hunting. I have been under the doctor's care for four months and unable to work. All I have to live on is $4 a week that I get from the city, and I am away behind in the rent and have been ordered out for the last of the month. We have been using old coats and anything to cover up with, as we have no bedding. My little girls have nothing to wear but a pair of black bloomers, a sweater and a blouse, with a union suit that I wash at night for the next day. It makes my heart ache to see them go out these cold days. If anyone has any clothes that would fit them, or could be made over, I would be ever so grateful. My children wear sizes 10 and 11½ in shoes, and I wear size 3½ in shoes and 38 or 40 in dresses.

Offers Radio Set

Editor Helping Hand:

In your paper Margaret C. is asking for a radio set. I have a set that works good, but no phones, which I will gladly give one because I see so many people that need help, but if someone could help me with a few things that they did not need any more I would be very grateful. My husband is making only thirteen dollars a week, and out of that I can't buy much clothes. There are two twins, a boy and a girl, three years and eight months old, and a little girl baby who will be two years in January. I take size 36 or 38. But if I could get some things for the children I would not mind so much myself.

Widow and Alone

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow fifty years old and all alone in the world. I have been working as a saleslady. It is pretty hard for an old lady to be on her feet all day. I wonder if there is anyone who could give me a place in their home? I am clean and respectable and would be glad to care for children or do light work in return for enough money to buy clothes, etc.

You who have followed the Helping Hand in its more than a year of existence know better than others the suffering that constantly exists about us. Those of you who could, have shown that you know it by your unstinted help and encouragement.

Because, then, we know you have an understanding heart, the Helping Hand Editor wishes to call your attention to the Christmas Basket Fund which, with your help, will provide a Christmas dinner for many thousands of families who would otherwise find the Yuletide pretty cheerless. Why Rich Old Hubby "Forgot" His Gay Wife's Gem Insurance

Strangest of Robbery Sequels Discloses Millionaire Schoellkopf Selling His Home and "Keeping Mum," While His Wife Flits About Europe

Jewelry Insurance Paper Covering Mrs. Schoellkopf's Stolen Gems, Which Her 62-Year-Old Husband Apparently Has Strangely "Forgotten."

"Barrie" Carman, the "Divine Dancer," Who Was Host at the Party Preceding Mrs. Schoellkopf's Loss of Her Jewels.

A HANDSOME, lively matron, fond of frothy "parties," is invited to "welcome the New Year" in a dapper young man's rooms, a few strides from New York City's Fifth avenue. She accepts, decks herself dazzingly in rubies, pearls and diamonds, and attends the jollification.

Seven other guests, most of them unknown to her, are there, too. A sippy poker game starts. Tense gayety colors the scene. Suddenly a stranger, living on the floor below, intrudes with an offer of celebratory champagne. He joins the players. There is a row which threatens to become a riot.

The lively matron, scenting a scandal, starts back to her hotel, leaving on the very heels of the wine-profferer. On the floor below two men seize her, dope, bind and gag her. From her arms, wrists, throat, fingers they strip a fortune in gems. And, bleeding and incoherent, she staggers back to the "party," to mumble out her mad adventure.

THAT was Chapter One in the great Schoellkopf jewel robbery. When the newspapers blazed forth the facts across a continent, many readers thought that the last word in metropolitan melodrama had been uttered.

Yet, though a score of fantastic details were dug up in the subsequent investigation, the most extraordinary of all has just come to light. The husband of the lively matron, much her senior, has apparently decided to "forget" the insurance on the stolen baubles, though it amounts to a neat little "nest-egg" of hundreds of thousands of dollars!

What makes this "forgetfulness" all the more remarkable now is the easily-recalled attitude of the up-state Croesus when he first learned of Mrs. Schoellkopf's costly mishap. After burning up the miles between Buffalo and New York City, the multi-millionaire panted into the presence of the usual insurance detectives, who were just then very much on the job, seeking clues to the crime.

What they said to him, and what he said to them, is not known in detail, and may never be. But those who have kept an eager eye on the Schoellkopf case all along declare that the sleuths laid before Schoellkopf an unbroken chain of episodes, upon which they had stumbled, and which, fitting perfectly, link to link, form the real reason for his subsequent "forgetfulness"—a loss of memory that precludes the collection of the insurance—if it could be collected.

Everyone in touch with the case is asking everyone else questions.

Why, query the inquisitive ones, has C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf, Buffalo's sixty-two-year-old capitalist and philanthropist, made no effort to collect the $350,000 insurance on the vanished gems of his wife, Mrs. Irene Marlack Schoellkopf, which were valued at $520,000?

Why is the report he has sold his beautiful home accepted by acquaintances of the couple as authoritative?

Is the persisting rumor that he and the comely Irene are formally living apart true or false?

Was the New Year diamond-snatching a crucial point in their hitherto blissful wedded life?

And exactly what role is Frank Barrett ("Barrie") Carman, suave New York host, "divine dancer" and protegé of Mr. and Mrs. Schoellkopf, playing in the tangled texture of the drama's aftermath?

Carman was an outstanding figure in the early publicity attending the robbery, though at no time was he proved to have the slightest connection with it. Handsome, vivacious and a former actor, "Barrie" Carman, who scarcely looks his thirty years, maintained an apartment on the top floor of the house at No. 64 West Fifty-second street. Weeks before the party at which Mrs. Schoellkopf was a guest he had rented the flat below to three men, "Marshall," "McGowan" and "Lewis," as they were later identified in the blanket indictment of robbery, grand larceny, assault and criminally receiving stolen goods, all in the first degree.

Then came Carman's New Year celebration. Mrs. Schoellkopf, finding Buffalo a bit dull, had flitted down to the "big town" for the holidays. She and her husband, who remained at home, had known Carman for some time. They had found him a charming young man, with a flair for high-class cabaret time-killing. And Mrs. Schoellkopf was fond of dancing.

The dancing at the Carman party was a mere interlude to card-playing, chatter and conviviality. What made the occasion literally "brilliant" was the lavish display of precious stones by Carman's women guests. A flashing million dollars' worth of jewels, the police later declared, was flaunted by the owners. For Mrs. Schoellkopf, gemmed as she was, did not lack rival lustre.

Only when the mysterious "Marshall" rapped at the door did the spirit of melodrama enter. "Marshall," later identified as Matthew Biddulph, collar model and movie actor, and sent to Sing Sing for six years, invited himself in, "opened wine," joined the poker gamblers.

His attempt to cash a check to pay for his losses started a controversy, and "Marshall" left. Mrs. Schoellkopf, alarmed by the raised voices and continued wrangling, fled to the floor below on her way to the street, when the robbers seized her.

They dragged her into "Marshall's" room; forced a syringeful of ammonia into her mouth; grabbed their rich loot—and disappeared. Not till six months later were "Marshall's" "roommates," Eugene Moran and Albert Herowitz, traced to Princeton and arrested. Meanwhile, the unmasked "Marshall" had received a penitentiary sentence.

Meanwhile, too, the gems were NOT recovered. They were always just about to be found, but somehow they weren't. Schoellkopf, muscular, ruddy and determined-looking, despite his age, was reported negotiating for their return. He seemed bent on this purpose.

Just how interested he had been all along in safeguarding his wife's diamonds and pearls may be gathered from one fact. When she dropped the insurance policy—she "could take care of herself"—he quietly and unknown to her paid the premium. She was astonished when the secret became known.

"Yes, the loss is fully covered," admitted a Broadway insurance broker, when the non-collection of the Schoellkopf insurance began to be a spicy theme for speculation. But another official, whose firm had insured a part of the robbers' loot, gave out this terse statement: "Not a penny's loss will be suffered by the companies." Further than that he refused to speak.

The official has proved an excellent prophet. The Buffalo millionaire's subsequent attitude, though mystifying to the many, has been consistently passive. "To avoid further notoriety"—that is the reason assigned by current gossip to his strange change of heart about that $350,000 policy, if change it is.

He is reported living at a Buffalo hotel. His wife is said to be in Europe. But if so frivolous a thing as a smile can enter so grave a matter as a $520,000 jewel theft, that smile could play over the features of but one person. And that person by rights should be the insurance official who gave out the ten-word interview:

"Not a penny's loss will be suffered by the companies."

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A NEW YORK woman has opened a school on Fifth avenue, where she plans to teach bashful couples how to love. She says some men are so reticent they wouldn't speak to a strange girl if they saw her drowning, for fear she'd think they were flirting with her.

SHE claims that while one man may not know when to hold a girl's hand, another one may not know when to let go.

A LOT of people think it's ignorance that causes a guy to take his girl to dinner and then ask the waiter for separate checks.

THAT doesn't take ignorance, it takes experience.

A MAN who does this may not be romantic, but he's thrifty.

HE might not know where his next dollar is coming from, but he's sure where his last one is going.

ONE guy was so ignorant he thought that chaperones were something that cowboys wore.

ANOTHER fellow was so bashful he sat on the sofa with his sweetheart one night and told her he'd like to steal a kiss, only he didn't bring his burglar tools with him.

THIS same bird put his arm around a dame one evening and then went home and confessed it to his mother.

HE'S the kind of a sport who takes his girl a box of fudge that he made himself.

HIS idea of a wild evening is to go into his girl's kitchen and show her how he can bake a cake.

IGNORANCE is bliss, but a guy doesn't discover all the fun he's gone without until after he's quit being dumb.

GET OUT OF THE HABIT OF THINKING BACKWARD

As you look back you can think of many good opportunities of which you did not take advantage.

Most of your thoughts of the past are vain regrets.

But why not centre on making opportunities for yourself now?

"Too old to make a start."

Is your opinion so firmly entrenched in your sub-conscious mind that you cannot limber up your thoughts enough to see a good opportunity now when you get it?

You have passed up as good opportunities as you will have, first in the past two or three years, because you are past the prime of life.

You always say, now, "If I were a little younger."

There are many ways in which you could better your position.

If you have your faculties and can eat three meals a day, you ought to have brains enough to take your opportunities as fast as they are presented.
